GENERAL INFORMATION PERTAINING TO WATER RIGHTS IN CALIFORNIA

There are two principal types of surface water rights in California. They are riparian and appropriative rights.

A riparian right enables an owner of land bordering a natural lake or stream to take and use water on his riparian land. Riparian land must be in the same watershed as the water source and must never have been severed from the sources of supply by an intervening parcel without reservation of the riparian right to the severed parcel. Generally, a riparian water user must share the water supply with other riparian users. Riparian rights may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or to divert water which originates in a different watershed, water previously stored by others, return flows from use of groundwater, or other "foreign" water to the natural stream system.

An appropriative right is required for use of water on non-riparian land and for storage of water. Generally, appropriative rights may be exercised only when there is a surplus not needed by riparian water users. After the formation of the California Water Commission back on December 19, 1914, new appropriators have been required to obtain a permit and license from the State. Appropriative rights can be granted to waters "foreign" to the natural stream system.

Statements of Water Diversion and Use must be filed by riparian and pre-1914 appropriative water users as set forth in Water Code section 5100 with specific exceptions. The filing of a statement (1) provides a record of water use, (2) enables the State to notify such users if someone proposes a new appropriation upstream from their diversions, and (3) assists the State to determine if additional water is available for future appropriators.

The above discussion is provided for general information. For more specific information concerning water rights, please contact an attorney or write to this office. We have several pamphlets available. They include: (1) Statements of Water Diversion and Use, (2) Information Pertaining to Water Rights in California, and (3) Appropriation of Water in California.

Re: Craig McArthur's Statements of Diversion for Statement Nos. S008735, S008912, and S015104.

To whom it may concern,

Enclosed with this letter are statements of diversion for Statement Nos. S008735, S008912, and S015104. Statement Nos. S008735 and S008912 cover the years 2003, 2004, and 2005. Statement No. S015104 covers the years 2000, 2001, and 2002.

I apologize that these statements are being filed at this late time. My client thought he had mailed these statements in March of 2006. However, it was not until a recent search at the records office that I discovered that these statements were not on file.

Very truly yours,

Paul T. Johnson

I contacted Dan Gallery, the agent for S008735. Dan stated he has a client that wants to file a late Supp. Stmt. S008735 for years 2003-2004-2005 and could the Division mail him an old Supp. form. I told Dan we normally don't except late filings but can't prohibit his client from filing late. I told him we will be mailing the Supp. Stmts for 2006-7-8 within a month or so. Dan will wait to receive the current Supp.Stmts, make copies, change the dates and mail back the completed Supp. Stmts for years 2003-2008.

Bill - I rec'd a call from Dan Gallery re: Supplemental Statements. One of his clients (last name = MacArthur sp?)) wants to file for the period 2003 - 2005 and is due to be mailed a Supplemental Statement this year for 2006 - 2008.

The Water Code is clear about when the Supplemental Statements are to be filed (prior to July 1 in the year following the 3 year period), however there is no penalty for late filing. We can't tell them it is OK to late file, but we should not discourage late filing either (as there is no penalty).

444-2880 Gallery wants to get a blank Supplemental Statement form. I told Gallery that we do not post blank Supplemental Statement forms on-line because they are individualized with the diverter's name and address. I did not commit to this, but told him that we might consider sending a form with the name and address as listed in our database. Let's discuss the pros & cons. I will set up a meeting for tomorrow to discuss, as it provides a good opportunity to introduce Chris into the requirements of the program.

GENERAL INFORMATION PERTAINING TO WATER RIGHTS IN CALIFORNIA

There are two principal types of surface water rights in California. They are riparian and appropriative rights.

A riparian right enables an owner of land bordering a natural lake or stream to take and use water on his riparian land. Riparian land must be in the same watershed as the water source and must never have been severed from the sources of supply by an intervening parcel without reservation of the riparian right to the severed parcel. Generally, a riparian water user must share the water supply with other riparian users. Riparian rights may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or divert water which originates in a different watershed, water previously stored by others, return flows from use of groundwater, or other "foreign" water to the natural stream system.

An appropriative right is required for use of water on nonriparian land and for storage of water. Generally, appropriative rights may be exercised only when there is a surplus not needed by riparian water users. Since 1914, new appropriators have been required to obtain a permit and license from the State. Appropriate rights can be granted to waters "foreign" to the natural stream system.

Statements of Water Diversion and Use must be filed by riparian and pre 1914 appropriative water users as set forth in Water Code section 5100 with specific exceptions. The filing of a statement (1) provides a record of water use, (2) enables the State to notify such users if someone proposes a new appropriation upstream from their diversions, and (3) assists the State to determine if additional water is available for future appropriators.

The above discussion is provided for general information. For more specific information concerning water rights, please contact an attorney or write to this office. We have several pamphlets available. They include: (1) Statements of Water Diversion and Use, (2) Information Pertaining to Water Rights in California, and (3) Appropriation of Water in California.

GENERAL INFORMATION PERTAINING TO WATER RIGHTS IN CALIFORNIA

There are two principal types of surface water rights in California. They are riparian and appropriative rights.

A riparian right enables an owner of land bordering a natural lake or stream to take and use water on his riparian land. Riparian land must be in the same watershed as the water source and must never have been severed from the source of supply by an intervening parcel without reservation of the riparian right to the severed parcel. Generally, a riparian water user must share the water supply with other riparian users. Riparian rights may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or to divert water which originates in a different watershed, or return flows from use of groundwater.

An appropriative right is required for use of water on nonriparian land and for storage of water. Generally, appropriative rights may be exercised only when there is a surplus not needed by riparian water users. Since 1914 new appropriators have been required to obtain a permit and license from the State.

Statements of Water Diversion and Use must be filed by riparian and pre-1914 appropriative water users. The filing of a statement (1) provides a record of water use, (2) enables the State to notify such users if someone proposes a new appropriation upstream from their diversion, and (3) assists the State to determine if additional water is available for future appropriators.

The above discussion is provided for general information. For more specific information concerning water rights, please contact an attorney or write to this office. We have several pamphlets available. They include:
