

Protecting Rivers In The Face Of A Changing Climate

Feather
River -CA

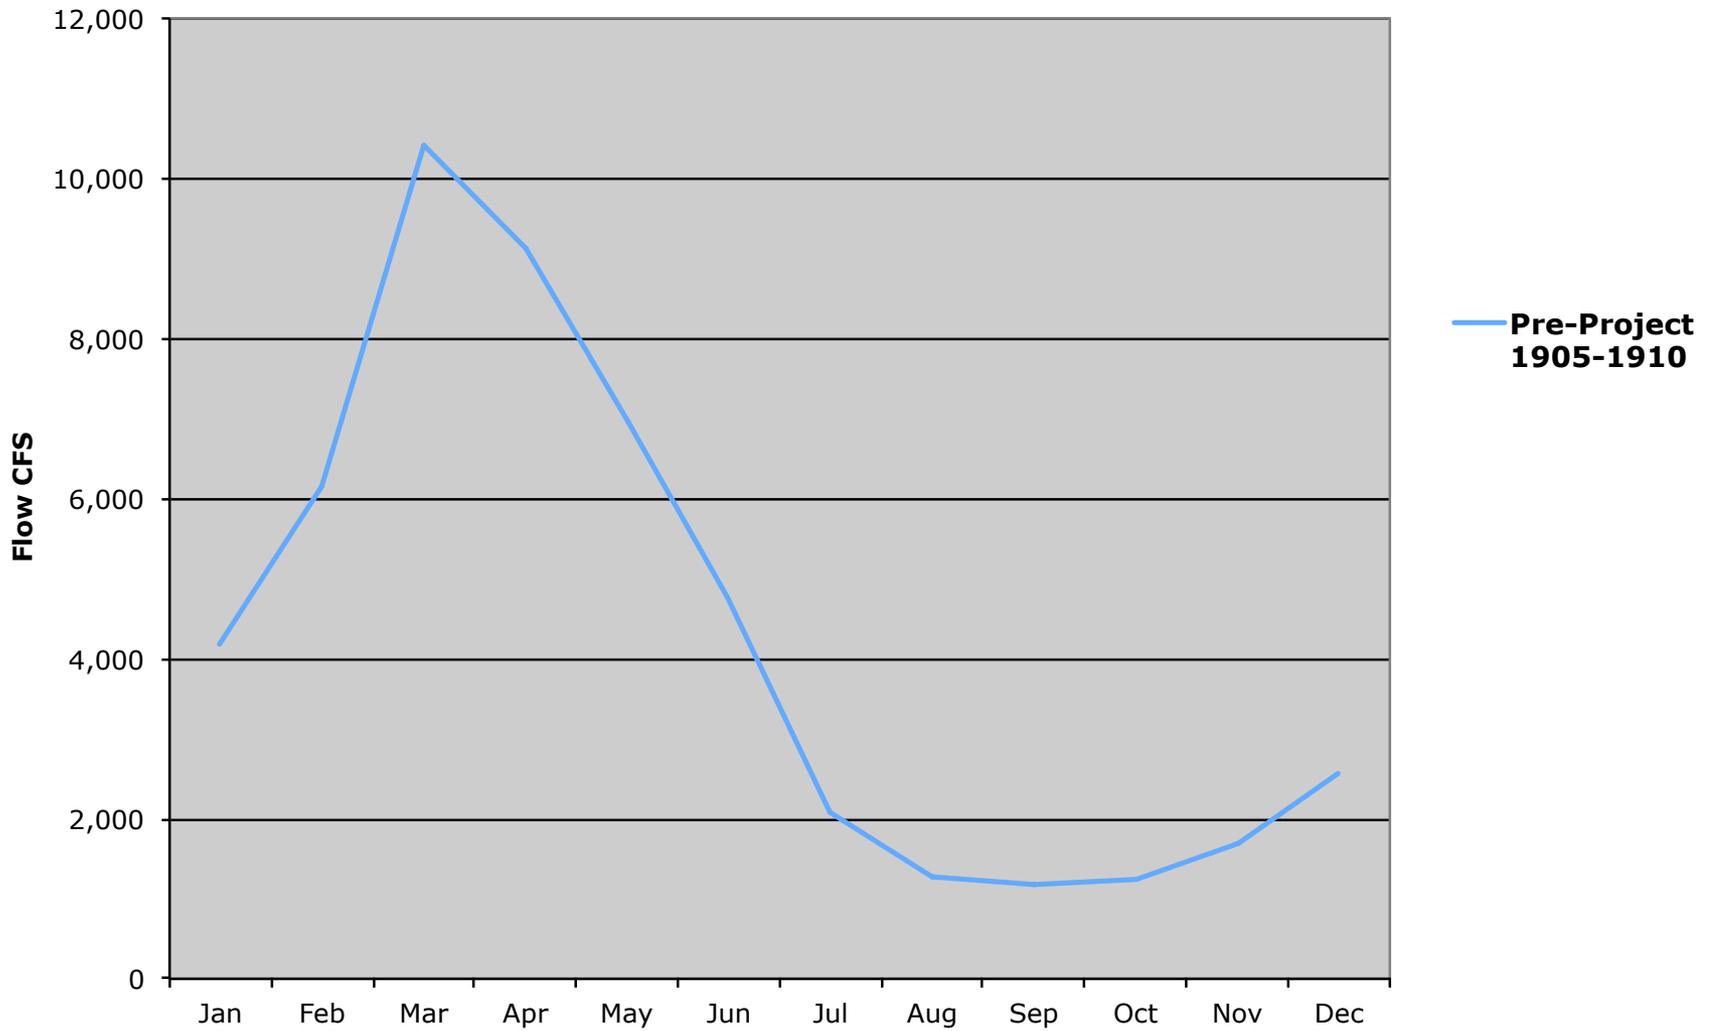

Protecting Rivers In The Face Of A Changing Climate

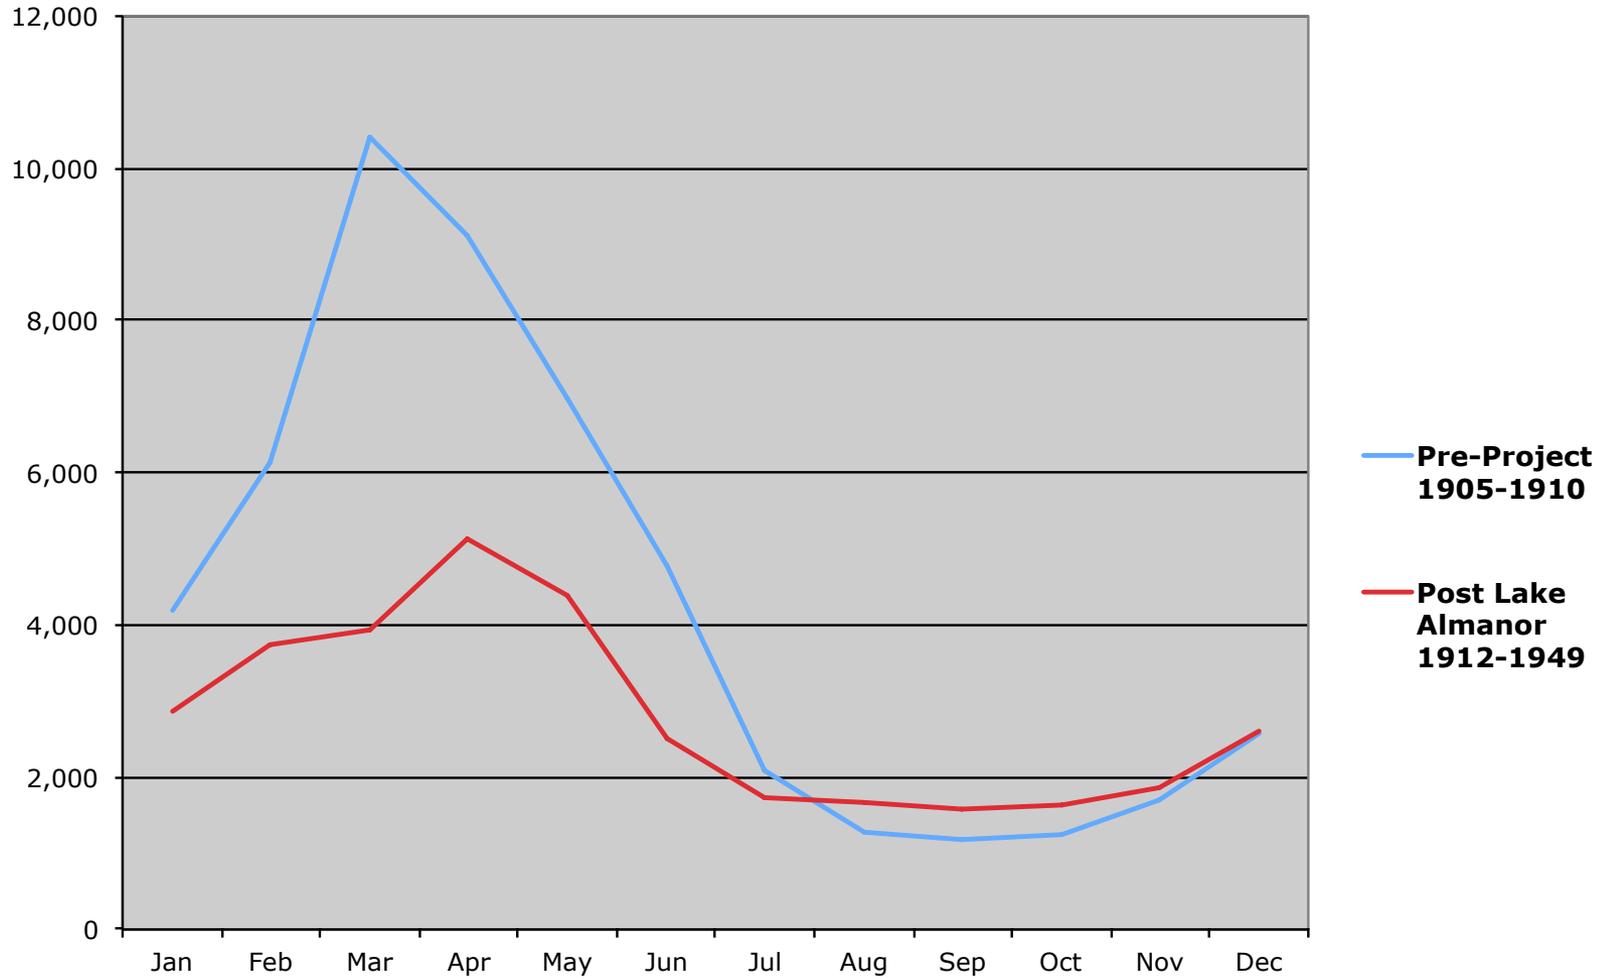

Feather
River -CA

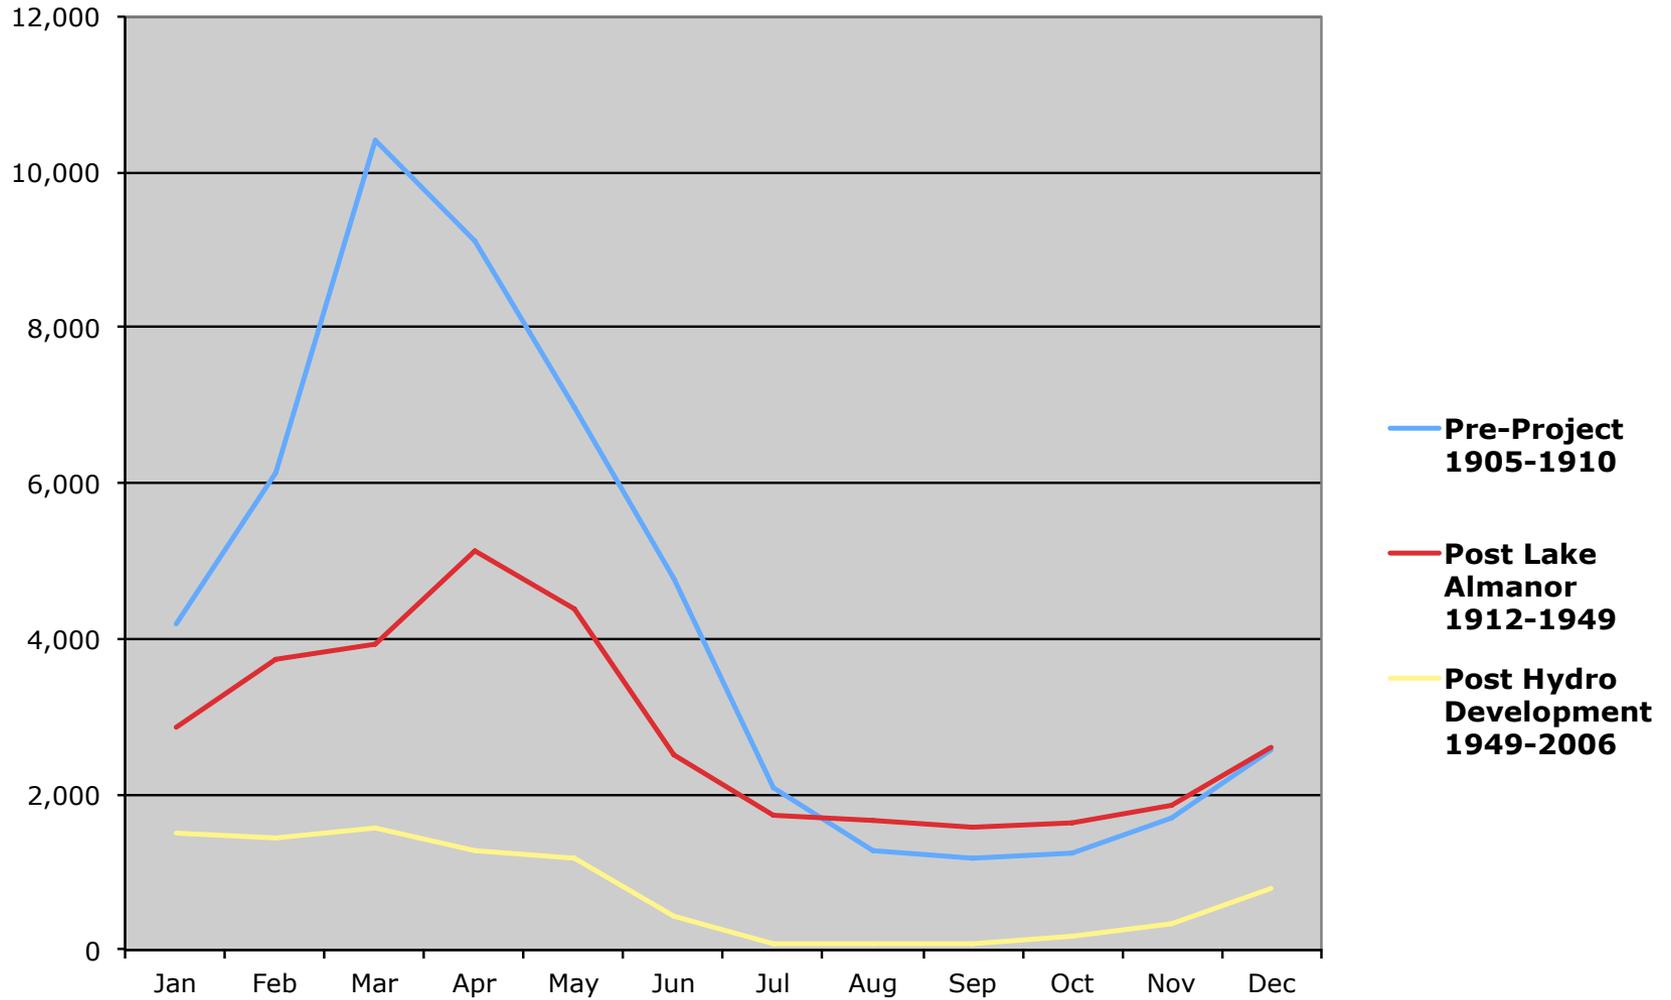

North Fork Feather River

North Fork Feather River

North Fork Feather River

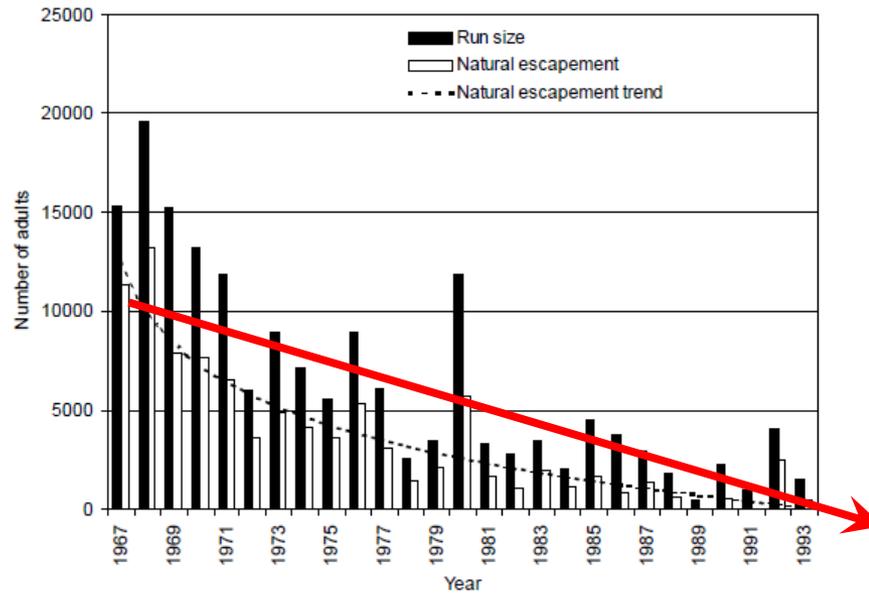

Figure 8 Steelhead population trends in the upper Sacramento River from 1967 to 1993.

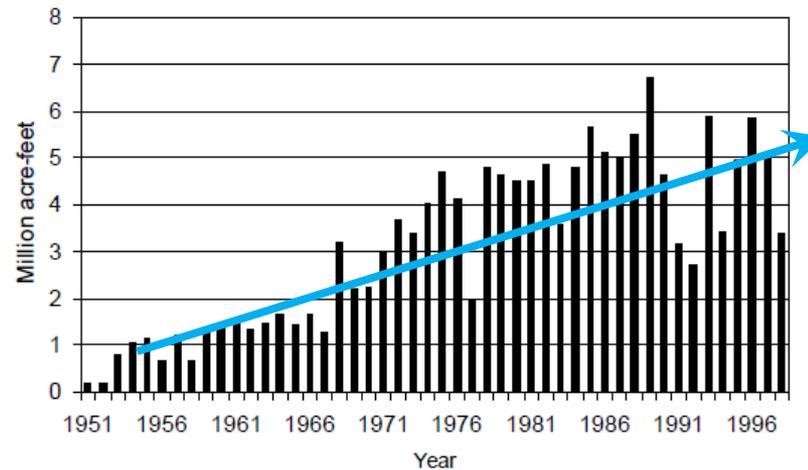

Figure 9 Combined State Water Project and Central Valley Project water exports from the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta and Estuary, 1951 to 1998

Adapted from: McEwan, D. 2001. Central Valley Steelhead. In: Brown, RL, Editor. Contributions to the biology of Central Valley salmonids, Fish Bulletin 179. Fish Bulletin 179.1. California Department of Fish and Game. p. 1-44.

What Can the Boards Do?

1. Develop System to Manage Water Rights
2. Set Clear Environmental Standards
3. Enforce the Standards

It is important be able to put the shoe on the other foot, but it is not ok to wear someone else's hat.