Packing

Along with growing various commodities and fresh produce, Del Mar Farms has integrated picking, packing, shipping, and other enterprises into their company.

Harvesting:

Del Mar Farms commodities are harvested using state of the art equipment and the latest technology. Harvest season is unique to each commodity with apricots beginning in May, melons beginning in July, roma tomatoes beginning late July and almonds peaking in September.

Sanatizing and Packing:

Fresh market apricots, roma tomatoes and almonds grown by Del Mar Farms and packed at their company facilities in Westley. When the freshly picked apricot arrive they are sanitized, graded, and packed into boxes according to variety and size. Fresh market tomatoes are harvested at peak maturity. The tomatoes are sent to Westley to be sanitized, cooled and packed. Almonds are harvested and shipped to the Del Mar Farms facilities to be sized, sorted and packaged after being hulled. Grown cantaloupes and honeydews are shipped to Del Mar Farms to be cooled to keep freshness and quality.

Coolina:

Del Mar Farms solar energy cooling facility is now completed and ready to be used this season.

Our newest cooling facility set to be used this season.

Marketing:

All the products packed at Del Mar Farms are marketed in house. Please contact the following people for interest in our almonds, apricots, cantaloupes, honeydews, or roma tomatoes:
