Bay Delta Conservation Plan
CA

Dear Conservation Plan,

The Delta tunnels are a political bone to the developers of Southern California and nightmare to 1) Northern CA ecosystems, 2) the agribusiness of Delta and 3) fresh water needs of the East San Francisco Bay Area. It simply makes no sense.

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

The deceptively named "California Water Fix" does not address the multitude of adverse environmental, public health, and economic impacts the proposed Delta tunnels project would cause. Further, the plan ignores alternatives that would save California tax- and ratepayers billions of dollars, while investing in jobs and local water sources that build sustainability, instead of severely damaging the Delta and Bay ecosystems.

I urge you not to permit the Delta Tunnels/California Water Fix (Alternative 4A) project to move forward.

Sincerely,

Bay Delta Conservation Plan
CA

Dear Conservation Plan,

Farming is an important "industry" for California, but like our use of energy, has been very inefficient in the use of water because they have successfully lobbied and managed to provide far more than adequate water resources into the Central Valley for agriculture.

Rather than providing ever more water as our drought and climate change are creating a greater demand, we should first provide significant incentives to greatly improve water usage rather than providing more water at the cost of huge ecological damage to the Sacramento River-San Francisco Bay region.

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

His legacy should be one of environmental strengths that he put in to place, or at least, made sure that ill-conceived projects such as this one never were put forward in the first place. He should think long term and maintain the beauty and importance of the Bay Delta, instead of short term for financial support given by the almond industry, which can implement far more water efficiency measures to accommodate their need, versus just taking this critical water from the Bay Delta.

Dear Conservation Plan,

CA has been in drought for four years. We've just come out of one of the worst fire seasons ever. While we may get some reprieve from a strong el Nino this year, CA may be facing a long future with less water due to climate change - in fact - that is quick likely our future. The state needs to take an honest look at what this means. We should be growing drought appropriate crops like olives, not almonds.

We need new thinking in the face of climate change - and growing almonds is rather stupid given how much water they need. Today, I'm drinking water from the Bay Delta instead of from the Hetch Hetchy because the reservoirs are so low. My water now tastes like dirt. CA needs to take serious action - mandating Xeriscaping and encouraging farmers to grow foods drought tolerant nutrient dense foods. I encourage collaboration with US Davis' renowned ag program to revision the state's agricultural future - if we want to have any water left in this state at all.

Dear Conservation Plan,

Northern California has it's own water problems. We are already sending huge, unsustainable amounts of water south, we cannot increase the amount. Dear Conservation Plan,

Over the years as I have followed this issue, I have tried to understand how the tunnels will help the CA water situation. No matter how the tunnel advocates explain it, it just doesn't seem to add up as a solution. It does seem to be a nice plum for agribusiness and others to the south but a death knell to a viable bay-delta ecosystem on which millions of other individuals depend. I urge you to give more attention to alternate ideas that have more opportunity for equitable balance.

Dear Conservation Plan,

Governor Jerry "Frack" Brown is at it again with massive water-wasting projects designed to devastate California for the sake of corporate profit--in this case, factory farms, which should be incentivized to save water, rather than encouraged in their wasteful destructiveness. Dear Conservation Plan,

This plan is ridiculous. We are in a state of emergency over water. Water intensive crops can not be supported anymore . It is more important to support human life, wild life, and other crops that are more appropriate for our climate. Leave the water where it is supposed to be and stop water hogs from taking what isn't theirs. By the way, why haven't you gone after Nestle? Why do they get a lot of our water virtually for free? I am boycotting Nestle products in protest. Stop the waste and rip offs and then look at other measures for water.

Dear Conservation Plan,

We do not need to create more problem by removing water from the Delta. We already are going through a bad drought. Why don't you try to do something with the gray water? We are throwing away most of it. If we have to spend more money for filtration plants for gray water, we also should have to spend lots of money to install tubes and pumps to move the water from the Delta to the Central Valley. And we need to consider the maintenance involved. And with gray water we do not destroy any ecosystem.

Bay Delta Conservation Plan
CA

Dear Conservation Plan,

I grew up in Sherman Oaks when there was a natural river across the street, and a dairy farm beyond it. Southern Calif is now a sick, grossly warped , overpopulated abomination, which has absolutely no claim on the limited water supplies of the rest of the state, other than masses of useless people and their money. Please, please, do not spend my money to create artificial diversions of our water to sustain an almost useless desert. Jerry Brown is a remarkably sharp guy, but supporting Southern Ca s' endless water grab isn't smart. Remember what they did to Mono Lake?

Cut off the artificial watering and, hopefully, Ca can eventually return to a semblance of Normal. Jerry!: Save the fish, Save the Bay, save the Delta.

NO TUNNELS

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

The deceptively named "California Water Fix" does not address the multitude of adverse environmental, public health, and economic impacts the proposed Delta tunnels project would cause. Further, the plan ignores alternatives that would save California tax- and ratepayers billions of dollars, while investing in jobs and local water sources that build sustainability, instead of severely damaging the Delta and Bay ecosystems.

I urge you not to permit the Delta Tunnels/California Water Fix (Alternative 4A) project to move forward.

Sincerely,

Dr. Jefferson Causey

Dear Conservation Plan,

Playing with riparian ecology is like gambling in Las Vegas.....everybody loses. I encourage you to not make a major environmental blunder for the sake of a few people's financial benefit.
