Bay Delta Conservation Plan
CA

Dear Conservation Plan,

We are tired of public assets being diverted to benefit small groups of special interests with deep pockets of campaign contribution cash.

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

The deceptively named "California Water Fix" does not address the multitude of adverse environmental, public health, and economic impacts the proposed Delta tunnels project would cause. Further, the plan ignores alternatives that would save California tax- and ratepayers billions of dollars, while investing in jobs and local water sources that build sustainability, instead of severely damaging the Delta and Bay ecosystems.

I urge you not to permit the Delta Tunnels/California Water Fix (Alternative 4A) project to move forward.

Sincerely,

Bay Delta Conservation Plan

Dear Conservation Plan,

The long-term solution to our water needs lies to the West; it's called the Pacific Ocean.

Building a system of desalination plants along the coast powered by wind and solar (both photovoltaic and thermal) energy can produce more than enough pure water (that can recharge aquifers for storage, thus eliminating ground subsidence and brackish water incursion). The concentrated brine can itself be commercialized as a reliable source of NaCl (and other salts), helping to defray costs..

Since only necessary solutes would be added to the virtually pure water, salt build up in agricultural soils would be greatly reduced, if not eliminated altogether. Finally, natural ecosystems and their habitats can be restored, since water diversions would no longer be necessary.

Dear Conservation Plan,

Do you really support draining the Bay-Delta waterways to support almonds and pistachios? Really? I do understand that these crops are huge export money makers. I also understand that the Bay Delta and the Sacramento River are even more important. When did industrial agriculture take over the State's water supply? And, for how long is this sustainable? How long before the water table is permanently reduced? We have deep wells now, sucking up more water; we do not need a massive water diversion for profit.

Dear Conservation Plan,

In addition to all its other problems, the Delta tunnels project is nothing but a (massively wasteful) stopgap measure. I like almonds as much as the next person, but maybe we should consider using our water more wisely when we have so little of it. Spending millions of taxpayer dollars to dig tunnels, divert a river, and wreck a critically endangered ecosystem won't give us more water. It's just a shell game with a lot of collateral damage. Dear Conservation Plan,

The Delta tunnels don't solve the problem of the San Francisco Bay requiring more water to keep its health so it can support the fish as well as the economic activity that happens around it. Central Valley and Southern California will always require more water than the Sacramento river and the Sierras can provide , so the Delta tunnels are not a solution in the long term. The Delta tunnels are a short term solution for the problems that the Central Valley has and in the process harms the Delta and the San Francisco bay.

So I strongly appeal the Delta Tunnels plan and hope you don't give a permit.

Bay Delta Conservation Plan
CA

Dear Conservation Plan,

Instead of degrading the environment, in central California, big water users in Southern California should be limited. The state should cut the use of fresh water by fracking industry. Eliminate ability of companies to steal California's water to bottle and sell overseas.

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

The deceptively named "California Water Fix" does not address the multitude of adverse environmental, public health, and economic impacts the proposed Delta tunnels project would cause. Further, the plan ignores alternatives that would save California tax- and ratepayers billions of dollars, while investing in jobs and local water sources that build sustainability, instead of severely damaging the Delta and Bay ecosystems.

I urge you not to permit the Delta Tunnels/California Water Fix (Alternative 4A) project to move forward.

Sincerely,

How can you fix the water shortage problem by taking more water from the delta? Does not make sense!

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

Dear Conservation Plan,

With few special exceptions, during times of severe drought, water used for agribusiness should be restricted to crops consumed in California.

Crops grown with California water should not be exported during such times. Water use should be allocated for human consumption first before it is allowed to profit agribusiness. Dear Conservation Plan,

Do not drain the eco- sensitive delta on behalf of big ag business. I realize there are jobs and the state's finances on the line but if you do this realize there are even bigger consequences. The big ag and big oil interests in the central valley are not the singular most important entities in this state, nor do they deserve to destroy an ecology. The fact that we are allowing fracking in our state with fresh water is absolutely crazy and further contaminating our aquifers is beyond ludicrous, so why would we now drain the delta? Say No to underground Bay-Delta export tunnels. Our fresh water delta is not for sale!

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

The deceptively named "California Water Fix" does not address the multitude of adverse environmental, public health, and economic impacts the proposed Delta tunnels project would cause. Further, the plan ignores alternatives that would save California tax- and ratepayers billions of dollars, while investing in jobs and local water sources that build sustainability, instead of severely damaging the Delta and Bay ecosystems.

I urge you not to permit the Delta Tunnels/California Water Fix (Alternative 4A) project to move forward.

Sincerely,

Dear Conservation Plan,

This is a terrible deception to drain fresh water from the delta to support big industry (corporate agriculture and housing development) in Southern California. The impacts of this are extremely significant to the disband wildlife now already threatened with habitat loss and increased salinity in the delta. Development and agriculture in Southern California and the Central Valley cannot rely on imported water to sustain an unsustainable economy. It's time for Californians to recognize that building and growing food in a desert must be regulated and sustained by local water supply only. Stop this destruction. I am normally a supporter of governor Brown but in this project, I am strongly opposed.
