Bay Delta Conservation Plan
CA

Dear Conservation Plan,

Governor Brown - stop this misguided, ecology wrecking Delta tunnels project.
Forget it. Instead encourage environmentally wise changes in the agricultural system, to work with the new normal in a sustainable way.

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

The deceptively named "California Water Fix" does not address the multitude of adverse environmental, public health, and economic impacts the proposed Delta tunnels project would cause. Further, the plan ignores alternatives that would save California tax- and ratepayers billions of dollars, while investing in jobs and local water sources that build sustainability, instead of severely damaging the Delta and Bay ecosystems.

I urge you not to permit the Delta Tunnels/California Water Fix (Alternative 4A) project to move forward.

Sincerely,

Dear Conservation Plan,

This is insanity. Hasn't government policy already screwed up our environment enough? Dams, water diversions, fracking, agricultural & CAFO runoff pollution. Do you think we are the last generation of human beings who will have to live here?! You MUST leave some things relatively stable for future generations. Screw the agribusinesses that use huge amounts of water where water does NOT exist. If you want to spend billions of dollars on something, subsidize them to grow something that makes more environmental sense.

Quite Sincerely,

L. Kiely

Dear Conservation Plan,

I truly feel for the farmers, but destroying the Bay-Delta (which I believe is a definite possibility) does not seem to be the answer. I believe there should be additional lengthy fact-finding and voter feed-back before this project is agreed to. Other methods are out there - it is just a matter of diligence in our quest to create a working water efficient project.

Dear Conservation Plan,

I absolutely oppose any project which would send more Sacramento River water south. Development and agricultural interests in the drier parts of the state need to seek out solutions to their water needs that are congruent with living in a dry climate. It is not sustainable to move water and court environmental disaster in one part of the state to support wasteful usage in a region that does not already have water.

Water policies in the state and in the valley need to be radically rethought and redesigned to reflect the reality of the dry climate.

Bay Delta Conservation Plan
CA

Dear Conservation Plan,

Agriculture in California needs to be reimagined, both for improved methods and a different crop mix that needs less water. The first priority is for people to have clean water to drink. Next, we need to protect our salmon industry -- after all salmon is food, too, and we earn money from it. And then there's tourism. A lot of people come to see our wildlife and wild places. Without water, there will be less to see.

Westlands does not need any more public subsidies and they stand to benefit greatly from these tunnels which the taxpayers will pay for.

We've known for maybe 30 years that selenium leaches into the soil from their irrigation. The taxpayers no doubt footed the bill for cleaning up the San Luis Reservoir. Enough is enough!

We were doing much better last year when we passed a bill to do something about our system of water rights. This is the path we should follow. Westlands and other powerful agribusiness is making an end run around that process.

Bay Delta Conservation Plan

Dear Conservation Plan,

Agribusiness in California is responsible for draining much of California's water resources. By acting now for immediate need we, as a state, are creating a huge deficit for future needs. To pass a proposal, such as the Delta Tunnels Project, that address short-term profit-oriented industries to the detriment of a long term vision is the height of short-sighted greed and ultimately destroys the very resources on which these industries are based. Considering how precious our dwindling water supply is and how vital to the environment it is that we take precautions now in order to offset the devastating consequences if we do not, I would hope that you would want to do whatever is possible to protect the Delta and California's water resources, not destroy them. The Delta Tunnel Project is yet another desperate, wasteful idea which should not be allowed to go forward.

Dear Conservation Plan,

The Governor of California has a bug up his ass to complete this tunnel project his father as Governor began. He must really believe he is doing a good thing for California. His belief has blinded him to the ecological reality of taking even more water away from a fragile ecosystem already depleted by water export and drought conditions. As a fifteen year resident of the Delta, only this year have I had toxic blue green (poisonous)algae developed on the water in my backyard. We only have Mr. Brown to blame for this. If you allow this tunnel project, you will be complicit in helping to forever destroy our California Delta.

Bay Delta Conservation Plan
CA

Dear Conservation Plan,

Why don't we start solving the water problem by making agriculture pay much higher fees for water intensive food like almonds, rice, and cows.

We are running out of water, but until we stop growing water intensive food, our problems will never be solved and a 35 mile underground tunnel may be a short-term fix, but will devastate the region's ecology and salmon populations. Let's be smart for a change. We're so fond of supply and demand, let's utilize basic economics to jack up the prices for the highest users, and then taxpayers won't be on the hook for an inexpensive 35 mile tunnel that will do nothing in the long term to address our water problem.

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

The deceptively named "California Water Fix" does not address the multitude of adverse environmental, public health, and economic impacts the proposed Delta tunnels project would cause. Dear Conservation Plan,

The agricultural industry must develop new ways of irrigating crops, which so far they have not done. It is not feasible to grow certain crops in California, such as cotton. These crops should be developed elsewhere. The industry should revise its policies. They should be conserving water just like everyone else, not taking water away from where it belongs and thereby destroying precious eco-systems. This drought is real and permanent. State policy should reflect that.

Bay Delta Conservation Plan
CA

Dear Conservation Plan,

Having lived in California all my life, I have experienced several droughts. All have been bad but this is the worst. What angers me the most is that I have friends who live in souther California and who tell me they don't conserve like we are required to do. I strongly believe that the water we have in the north belongs in the north. We should not be supplying water for crops that required watering year round, such as almonds and walnuts which are grown for sale overseas. We need to rethink how we use water and farmers need to rethink what they grow.

It is also ludicrous to expect that building 2 40 foot diameter tunnels to take water from north of the delta to give to the Westlands Water District (welfare for the rich) and to southern California, will help to preserve the Delta. A 4 year old can see if you take water away from the delta, the delta will dry up! WE MUST STOP THIS THEFT OF DESPERATELY NEEDED WATER BY THE SOUTH. Northern California and the San Francisco Bay and delta need the influx of fresh water that scours out and keeps our waterway clean and healthy. We must not sacrifice the health and future of such a special area for the greedy water takers in the south!

No tunnels, no delta plan as it now stands!

Dear Conservation Plan,

Underneath all the "process" and "studies" and "mitigations" ( the most recent, now 30K acres of "restored" wetlands - down from 100K acres!); the 44' diameter twin peripheral tunnels are simply a huge water grab of what's left of Northern California's fresh water by powerful Southern California water/ag. interests. The S.F./Bay Delta is already devastated by water diversion and the drought. This last nail in the coffin, will guarantee the Delta will turn into nothing more than a dead saltin-sea backwash. Bay Delta Conservation Plan

Dear Conservation Plan,

Saving species in their natural habitat will endanger and disrupt the equilibrium of the Bay-Delta ecosystem. Politicians are one of the last ones to even acknowledge the so-called 'circle of life'.

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

The deceptively named "California Water Fix" does not address the multitude of adverse environmental, public health, and economic impacts the proposed Delta tunnels project would cause. Further, the plan ignores alternatives that would save California tax- and ratepayers billions of dollars, while investing in jobs and local water sources that build sustainability, instead of severely damaging the Delta and Bay ecosystems.

I urge you not to permit the Delta Tunnels/California Water Fix (Alternative 4A) project to move forward.

Sincerely,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Delta Tunnels Plan.

The deceptively named "California Water Fix" does not address the multitude of adverse environmental, public health, and economic impacts the proposed Delta tunnels project would cause. Further, the plan ignores alternatives that would save California tax- and ratepayers billions of dollars, while investing in jobs and local water sources that build sustainability, instead of severely damaging the Delta and Bay ecosystems.

I urge you not to permit the Delta Tunnels/California Water Fix (Alternative 4A) project to move forward.

Sincerely,

Mr. Lawrence Gimbel
