To Whom It May Concern:

I have just heard from my neighbors in the Occidental area, (Dutch Bill Creek Water Shed District) that there is going to be a meeting in Sacramento tomorrow, June 17, 2015. Although we will not be able to attend, we are voicing our opinions as we live in the area.

We did not receive any sort of notification of the proposed restrictions. Yet, our neighbors did. Funny, we are in the same water shed.

How can this board have the audacity to believe that small landowners need to be forced into conserving water during a drought or at any other time. Anyone that has any knowledge about the Occidental area knows we all conserve water. What well owner wants to have to purchase water when their well goes dry. One of our biggest concerns for years has been lack of water and yet more and more vineyards are allowed to continue pumping our most valuable resource out of the ground. Some of our neighbors have to have water trucked to their homes earlier and earlier now.

We carry grey water to the few plants we have around the house, I carry the little bit of cold water that comes out of the faucet before our tankless hot water heater kicks in out to our bird baths, and I am constantly nagging my husband to check the cow troughs to make sure the float valves are in working order.

What right does this board have to tell us that we must provide information about our water use? Are all the wineries and other large agri-businesses going to be required to provide the same information at any point. Not the way the draft is written. Why are they exempt when they use so much more water?

We sincerely hope that this board is not going to agree to violate our 4th amendment rights and threaten us with fines if we don't provide the source and use of our water.

We are so sorry and so disappointed that a board that normally has our best interests in mind when making decisions ignored the local people and the water challenges. I am shocked that notification was distributed so poorly. Comments closed before we even knew what was going to be discussed about matters that we deal with every time we turn on a faucet and hear the pump start to run.

We would rather protect the fish than drink wine any day. Give us some credit and don't think an agency can force us to do what we are already doing.

Sincerely,

John and Pauline Loades
