Subject: Eagle Crest project

To Whom:

I have submitted letters all during the public comment periods on this project. In theory it is wonderful, in reality, there are some missing pieces...such as a legal and binding contract with the property owners for use of their land for this project. And to depend on condemning the land by eminent domain seems to be somewhat wishful thinking. The desert where this project is planned is already under production for many solar farms to produce power as well as the nuclear power to the East of this area. Not to mention the draw down on the water that it will take to create the power for this endeavor...and out of the ground is the only place that will provide this water, and the amount needed will eventually create an overdraft of this precious resource. I am just very concerned about the true validity of this project and the reality of it ever being built. There are just too many red flags. Thank you,
