Background

Water quality impacts associated with agriculture are complex and addressing them requires pooling and focusing the knowledge, expertise, and resources of all interested parties, including growers and their representatives, regulatory agencies, environmental advocates, environmental justice communities, and Tribes and Tribal communities. The State Water Board and the regional water quality control boards (collectively, Water Boards) must develop and implement a long-term sustainable Irrigated Lands Regulatory Program (ILRP) that protects the quality of waters of the state while supporting the viability of agriculture. With the help of our partners, the Water Boards made substantial progress in defining a science-based approach that provides a solid foundation for next steps.

As described on the Expert Panel website, the Water Boards convened a Panel to evaluate the data collected as part of the ILRP and consider the approaches adopted in the Eastern San Joaquin Petition Order and the Central Coast Ag Petition Order. State Water Board contracted with Sacramento State University College of Continuing Education to convene the Panel to provide recommendations for the ILRP. Several meetings have been conducted in support of the Panel process including:

- The first Plenary Panel meeting included a two-day kick-off meeting and was held in August 2025. The two-day meeting provided the Panel with an ILRP overview, perspectives from agricultural representatives and non-governmental organizations, presentations on Indigenous land stewardship and food systems, and available data sources from the Water Boards, approved third-party agricultural representatives, and environmental justice organizations.
- Two Public Listening Sessions were held on October 1, and December 17, 2025, to gather input from the public and all interested parties that were shared with the Panel members for their consideration of the Panel charge questions.

- The second Plenary Panel meeting was held on October 31, 2025, to receive presentations for the Panel's consideration, and for the Panel to discuss initial recommendations in response to the Panel charge questions.
- Eleven Panel working group sessions were held on October 13, October 22, November 14, November 19, December 5, and December 12, 2025, and January 7, January 14, January 21, January 29, and February 11, 2026, to support Panel deliberations on the Panel charge questions.

A Final Plenary Panel meeting will be held in May 2026. It is anticipated that the Panel will present their recommendations to the Panel charge questions and finalize the Panel Report. The Panel Chair will present the recommendations and Final Report to the State Water Board in June 2026.
