

DAVID J. IREY - In 1985, David Irey received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Environmental Toxicology from the University of California, Davis campus. After entering law school at the University of Davis, King Hall School of Law in 1985, he decided to pursue a joint degree program. He earned his Master of Science Degree in Water Science in 1989 and graduated from King Hall the same year.

David has been with the San Joaquin County District Attorney Office's Environmental Prosecutions Unit since 1988 and has served in the capacity as a Deputy District Attorney assigned to the Environmental Prosecutions Unit since 1989. Beginning in 1997, he was the lead attorney in the Environmental Prosecutions, Worker Death and Code Enforcement Units. Since 2002 (officially since 2004), David has been the Supervising Deputy District Attorney for the San Joaquin County District Attorney Office's Environmental Prosecutions, Worker Death, Consumer Fraud, and Code Enforcement Units.

David has been an active member of the California District Attorneys Association Environmental Protection Committee since the early 1990's and has served on multiple sub-committees, some for over a decade. During 1998 and 1999, he worked with the California District Attorney's Association Circuit Prosecutor Project training numerous Environmental Circuit Prosecutors. From 1997 through approximately 2001, David trained several California Department of Fish and Game attorneys in the handling of a myriad of environmental prosecutions. He has worked in close cooperation with several Local, State and Federal Task Forces for many years. David has been an instructor for the State Bar of California, the California Specialized Training Institute, the California District Attorneys Association, the California Environmental Protection Agency, the California Department of Fish and Game, the California Hazardous Materials Investigators Association, the California Specialized Training Institute, the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, the University of California (Davis) as a guest lecturer, and various other organizations. He is currently the Chair of the Environmental Protection Committee – Training Sub-Committee for the California District Attorneys Association.
