Public Comment
2016 Bay-Delta Plan Amendment & SED
Deadline: 3/17/17 12:00 noon

Felicia Marcus
Board Chairwoman
State Water Resources Control Board
P.O. Box 100
Sacramento, CA 95813-0100

Dear Chairwoman Marcus:

I wanted to take the opportunity to make additional comments on the Bay-Delta report and the hearings you have held. Thousands of residents from my area have written you, have attended your Christmas holiday hearings, and have remained engaged in this process. Your report essentially dismisses their concerns.

Attached please find over 1,000 additional signatures from petitions calling upon your board to reject this proposal. This brings the total number of signatures from Stop the Regulatory Drought and my office to over 5,000. Those are in addition to the petition signatures gathered by Save the Stan, Worth Your Fight, and the proponents of the Merced SAFE Plan. Also attached are recent letters from local government agencies throughout my district opposing your plan.

My letter of January 3rd and my testimony at that hearing as well as the meetings in both Merced and Modesto raised many concerns. But, some points must be stressed again:

- 1) You contend that impacts to groundwater will essentially be dealt with in the Sustainable Groundwater Management Act (SGMA), years from now, and to estimate impacts now would be "speculative." We all know that our groundwater basins already are at high risk, but your proposal promises to make a bad situation much worse. That is not speculation. That is just fact.
- 2) Your report states the impacts to drinking water in disadvantaged communities will also be addressed under SGMA, and that these impacts are too "speculative" to quantify at this time. But you, your board colleagues, your staff, and all who have participated in this process know your recommendations will make the health and safety challenges facing the drinking water of thousands of Californians much worse. Again, that is not speculation that is just fact.

- 3) You have spent countless dollars and time seeking to quantify the benefits to fish in your report. Frankly, those studies, and their findings that the biological increase in salmon would be either 1,104, 2,059 or 7,637 depending on which analysis and assumptions you use, is much more "speculative" than your description of impacts to groundwater and drinking water. In fact, after admitting the use of the model was flawed, your staff now states that there is no quantifiable number of increased salmon since that depends on so many other factors including predation, control, and habitat restoration. Your plan does nothing to make those needs a reality. In effect, your plan, if implemented, will give us an increase of 1,103 salmon, maybe 7,600, or maybe no increase at all. That is the definition of speculation.
- 4) Your economic analysis has so many shortcomings it should be discarded. Your report seriously understates and misrepresents the direct and indirect costs of the proposal. Even non-experts understand that ignoring impacts on groundwater, drinking water, hydropower, and greenhouse gas emissions significantly lowballs the costs.
- 5) Last month, your board released a composite list of every public drinking water source in the State with specific indicators of water quality. Why isn't that information part of the Bay-Delta analysis? Two of the communities cited in your report, Turlock and Ceres, will be directly impacted by the flows recommendation. Not only are they fully dependent on groundwater, their ongoing plans to have conjunctive use of Tuolumne River water would be destroyed by your action. The SED ignores all of this, and says to wait until SGMA is implemented to determine impacts. It is difficult to discern the role your drinking water quality division experts played in the development of the SED. They may have information that might address community concerns. You should make that available to the public.
- 6) Every public meeting on the SED update began with the statement that the board's role is to balance beneficial uses. But, we have yet to hear anyone discuss in detail what this is likely to mean to groundwater and drinking water in disadvantaged communities. In fact, the vast majority of the discussion has revolved around the modeling and methodology utilized for fish counts as if a few hundred more fish justifies devastating drinking water supplies. Public confidence would be better served with more robust and specific discussion on groundwater and the proposal's impacts on providing safe, reliable drinking water.
- 7) The chair has foreclosed on any discussion at these hearings of the California WaterFix (CWF) project. CWF is the largest water project in the State of California in the last fifty years, and it will have a profound impact on the Bay-Delta. Ignoring the data and information developed in the CWF process is to abdicate the board's responsibility under CEQA. The public has a right to know what the Bay-Delta will look like with CWF and the WQCP.

- 8) Your staff began the January 3rd meeting with a 53-slide presentation on significant issues that had been discussed previously and needed clarification. Most of the presentation was devoted to various justifications for the fish counts, for the additional water requirement posed by carryover storage, and further explanation of understated economic impacts. One slide dealt with groundwater, and one dealt with disadvantaged communities. Like the SED itself, this presentation was not balanced or reflective of the community's concerns.
- 9) The SED does not meet the test of balance. It does not meet the test of reason, and it does not meet your obligation to be transparent. It should be rejected, and you should let serious discussions on settlements proceed without its distraction.

Rarely have the residents of any area banded together with such unity in opposition to a project. My area has done so because we know that if adopted as proposed, the SED will create a new description for one of California's youngest and fastest growing regions. We will become known as "The Valley of Despair," where there is no opportunity, no hope, and no resources. This will be your legacy.

I urge you to reject the SED and direct your staff and consultants to start over. I ask that this letter, and the attached petition signatures, be made part of the record.

Sincerely,

Assemblymember Adam C. Gray

Re: City of Modesto's Comment Letter -- 2016 Bay-Delta Plan Amendment & SED

The City of Modesto appreciates the State Water Resources Control Board ("State Water Board") providing this opportunity for the City to review and comment on the draft 2016 Bay-Delta Plan Amendment and Substitute Environmental Document ("Revised Draft SED"). The City joins in the more detailed comments submitted by Modesto Irrigation District, the San Joaquin Tributaries Authority, the Stanislaus and Tuolumne Rivers Groundwater Basin Association, and the County of Stanislaus, and incorporates by reference the comments of these agencies. The City also offers the comments set forth below to supplement those agencies' materials and provide further explanation and context of issues that are more specific to the City.

A. The Revised Draft SED Fails to Consider the Demands on the Tuolumne River Water, and If These Demands Had Been Properly Considered, the Proposed Lower San Joaquin River Alternatives Would Not Withstand Scrutiny.

The Revised Draft SED does not appropriately balance the factors that the State Water Board must consider when setting or revising water quality objectives. In matters such as this, Water Code section 13241 compels the State Water Board to weigh the following factors:

- (a) Past, present, and probable future beneficial uses of water,
- (b) Environmental characteristics of the hydrographic unit under consideration, including the quality of water available thereto,
- (c) Water quality conditions that could reasonably be achieved through the coordinated control of all factors which affect water quality in the area,
- (d) Economic considerations,
- (e) The need for developing housing within the region, and
- (f) The need to develop and use recycled water.

As the Proposed Project is set forth in the Revised Draft SED, it fails to account for and properly balance these factors. First, the proposed update to the 2006 Water Quality Control Plan ("WQCP") improperly establishes Water Quality Objectives that would apply new regulations on the Tuolumne River and other waters outside the legal Delta without expanding the scope of the 2006 WQCP to protect these waters, designating beneficial uses for them, or undertaking the required statutory balancing of the competing interests in them. Second, the Revised Draft SED understates the importance of the City's existing and future beneficial uses of water to support its planned growth and development, including housing. The Revised Draft SED also fails to consider the impact of the proposed Water Quality Objectives in light of how they would damage the regional economy, including businesses within the City. Finally, the Revised Draft SED ignores the fact that recycling water is no longer a viable source of additional supply for the City. When these factors are given the appropriate level of importance, they militate against adopting a revised water quality objective that would have such severe impacts on the affordability and reliability of local water supplies.

1. The Statutory Requirements to Effect the Proposed Changes to the 2006 Bay-Delta Water Quality Control Plan Have Not Been Met, So the State Water Board Cannot Lawfully Adopt the Proposed Amendments.

Here, the Proposed Project consists of proposed amendments to certain water quality objectives imposed in the 2006 Bay-Delta WQCP. The Revised Draft SED specifically describes the Proposed Project as follows:

The project (plan amendments) would establish the following updates to the 2006 Bay-Delta Plan:

- New flow objectives on the Lower San Joaquin River (LSJR) and its three eastside tributaries for the protection of fish and wildlife beneficial uses.
- Revised water quality objectives for the protection of agricultural beneficial uses in the southern Delta.
- A program of implementation to achieve these objectives.
- Monitoring and special studies necessary to fill information needs and determine the effectiveness of, and compliance with, the new objectives.

The new LSJR flow objectives and revised southern Delta water quality (SDWQ) objective and associated program of implementation would replace the existing San Joaquin River (SJR) flow and southern Delta salinity objectives and associated program of implementation in the 2006 Bay-Delta Plan.

Revised Draft SED, p. 1-1.

Except as expressly set forth above, the Proposed Project would leave the provisions of the 2006 WQCP intact. The 2006 WQCP explicitly limits the scope of its application: "The water quality objectives in this plan apply to waters of the San Francisco Bay system and the legal Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta, as specified in the objectives." 2006 WQCP, p. 10, emphasis added. Furthermore, all of the beneficial uses designated within the 2006 WQCP, which serve as the basis for establishing appropriate water quality objectives, relate to uses of water within the legal Delta. 2006 WQCP, pp. 8 - 9. Thus, like its predecessors, the 2006 Bay-Delta WQCP protects the municipal and industrial uses of water within the Delta by users such as Contra Costa Water District. The 2006 WQCP also designates Lower San Joaquin River water quality objectives to be met at Vernalis, which is the southernmost point within the legal Delta.

In contrast, the waters of the Merced, Tuolumne, and Stanislaus Rivers, on the other hand, are not within the legal Delta. The Central Valley Regional Water Quality Control Board has set the water quality objectives for these rivers in the Central Valley Basin Plan. In setting these water quality objectives, the Central Valley Board balanced the competing uses of these sources of water and weighed the water needs of aquatic species against the other beneficial uses of the water. See Water Code §§ 13000 (when setting water quality objectives, the board must consider "all demands being made and to be made on those waters"), 13241 (requiring the boards to consider the water quality objective's impact on factors such as past, present and future beneficial uses of the water; economic considerations; and housing).

Here, the appropriate procedures have not been followed, and, as a result, the required statutory balancing has been neglected. As shown above, the description of the Proposed Project does not include expanding the scope of the 2006 WQCP to protect waters outside of the legal Delta. See Revised Draft SED, p. 1-1. Likewise, it does not propose to establish beneficial uses for any of the waters of the San Joaquin River or its tributaries that are outside of the legal Delta. Id.

However, the Revised Draft SED indicates that "the LSJR flow objectives would require flows below the rim dams on the Stanislaus, Tuolumne, and Merced Rivers, and the mainstem of the LSJR between the confluence of the Merced River to Vernalis to protect fish and wildlife beneficial uses in those reaches." Revised Draft SED, p. 1-1. In other words, the Proposed Project seeks to extend the regulations imposed by the Water Quality Objectives upstream, beyond the legal Delta, but State Water Board staff have not undertaken all of the steps necessary to amend the 2006 WQCP to effect this change. Before the Board amends the Bay-Delta Plan to impose new Water Quality Objectives on waters outside the legal Delta, it must first designate the beneficial uses of those waters. The Revised Draft SED fails to complete this necessary prerequisite. The Board then must develop Water Quality Objectives to provide reasonable protection for the designated beneficial uses of these waters, taking into account the other demands and beneficial uses. Water Code §§ 13000, 13241.

Here, the Revised Draft SED proposes to amend the 2006 Bay-Delta WQCP to impose new Water Quality Objectives on the tributaries to the San Joaquin River, which are not within the legal Delta, are not within the waters protected by the Bay-Delta WQCP, and are instead covered by the Central Valley Basin Plan. The Revised Draft SED does not identify or establish the beneficial uses of these waters. Thus, the Revised Draft SED does not comply with the statutory obligation to consider the other demands and beneficial uses of the waters that will be subject to the regulation before setting a water quality objective. Rather, like the WQCP that was disapproved in United States v. State Water Resources Control Bd., 182 Cal. App. 3d 96 (1986), the analysis of the Proposed Project considers "only the water use of the Delta parties . . . and the needs of the customers served by the projects. . ." that take water from the Delta, while ignoring the beneficial uses of water upstream. Id. at 118. This approach violates the Board's obligations to consider all competing demands for water as well as "past, present, and probable future beneficial uses of water" and the other factors mandated by Water Code section 13241. Id. Yet the Revised Draft SED inexplicably repeats the same procedural mistake that Justice Racanelli disapproved in 1986.

In amending the 2006 Bay-Delta WQCP to extend Water Quality Objectives outside the legal Delta, the State Water Board cannot meet its statutory obligations without determining the beneficial uses of the waters to be included and performing the required balancing of interests. How the proposed new objective will affect the past, present and future beneficial uses of water in the Bay-Delta, the economy of the Bay-Delta, and the housing of the Bay-Delta is not relevant when all of the impacts of this decision would be felt in the upstream areas outside of the legal Delta. The Proposed Lower San Joaquin River alternatives cannot be lawfully imposed until these necessary procedural steps – expanding the scope of the protected waters, making specific findings regarding their designated beneficial uses, and performing the required balancing of interests – are taken.

2. The Proposed Lower San Joaquin River Alternatives Do Not Reflect an Appropriate Weight for the City's Beneficial Uses of Water to Support Its Planned Growth and Development of Housing.

The City of Modesto delivers water that is then used for municipal, industrial and industrial processing purposes. These "beneficial uses" of water are protected by both the Water Quality Control Plan for the California Regional Water Quality Control Board, Central Valley Region (4th ed., July 2016) ["Central Valley Basin Plan"], and State Water Board Resolution No. 88-68, "Sources of Drinking Water Policy" ["SWRCB Drinking Water Policy"]. Central Valley Basin Plan, at IV-9.00, citing SWRCB Drinking Water Policy [other than under specifically defined exceptions, all surface and ground waters of the state are to be protected as existing or potential sources of municipal and domestic supply].

In its proposed updates to the Water Quality Objectives of the Water Quality Control Plan for the San Francisco Bay/Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta Estuary, the State Water Board must therefore take into consideration the City's "past, present and probable future beneficial uses" of water for municipal, industrial, and industrial processing purposes. Water Code § 13050(f), (j).

The City of Modesto currently receives approximately half of its annual drinking water supply from Tuolumne River surface water through a contract it has with the Modesto Irrigation District, a true and correct copy of which is attached as Exhibit A. The City plans to use the surface water provided by Modesto Irrigation District to meet the City's long-term drinking water needs. In exchange for this supply, over 20 years ago, the City committed to fund the Modesto Regional Water Treatment Plant. This deal allowed the City to diversify its water portfolio and to help protect local groundwater supplies. Modesto is currently investing over $300 million in water infrastructure to provide reliability for residents, business, and major industry, including $160 million in the next 5 years based on extensive analysis and planning that included anticipated future use of current surface water supplies. As the Revised Draft SED reveals, though, the proposed amendments to the Water Quality Objectives will cut surface water deliveries by 38% in critically dry years. The proposed project's severe reductions in surface water deliveries threaten all of the City's long-term water planning efforts and investments.

Obviously, affordable and reliable water supplies in adequate quantities are a cornerstone to a city's ability to plan its growth and meet its general economic development goals. In fact, the California Water Code requires cities and counties to examine the sufficiency of water supplies before they approve new development. See, e.g., Cal. Water Code §§ 10910, et seq. The Central Basin Water Quality Control Plan recognizes that "the protection and enhancement of beneficial uses require that certain quality and quantity objectives be met for surface and ground waters." Id. at II-1.00, emphasis added. Without water, the City's ability to attain the amount of growth planned under its General Plan – some of which is legally mandated – will be frustrated.

3. The Proposed Water Quality Objectives Threaten the City's Past, Present and Future Beneficial Use of Surface Water to Recharge Groundwater Supplies and Manage the Groundwater Basin in a Sustainable Manner.

Groundwater is an important source of water supply to the City, comprising the source of more than half of the water the City delivers. In many parts of the City's service area, groundwater provides the primary water source.

The City has been actively managing its groundwater pumping for decades, ahead of SGMA, to try to keep the withdrawals at a sustainable level. The City and the other local water supply agencies have been very successful in this regard: of all the groundwater basins in the areas of the San Joaquin Valley that have active agricultural communities, Stanislaus County has the only basins that have not been designated as "critically overdrafted." In fact, due to the City's efforts, the groundwater levels in the City of Modesto's contiguous system have been stable since 1995. See, generally, City of Modesto 2015 Urban Water Management Plan, a true and correct copy of which is attached as Exhibit B; DWR contour maps, true and correct copies of which are attached as Exhibit C.

Preventing that level of overuse of the local groundwater resources has taken a lot of effort, planning and expenditures by the City of Modesto and other local agencies. Aquifer Storage and Recovery, also known as "ASR," depends on additional surface water being available for recharge. To that end, the City entered into its surface water supply contract with Modesto Irrigation District and has made investments in the surface water treatment plant to allow it to incorporate greater surface water supplies in its portfolio.

If the Board adopts the alternative and reduces the City's available surface water supplies, the City has no source of water to treat or "bank" to continue to improve the status of the aquifer. By compromising the surface water supply that the City is using to balance its demand for groundwater, the staff-proposed alternative not only undermines the financial viability of the surface water treatment plant, but also threatens to undo all of the City's hard work to protect the local groundwater basins.

4. The Proposed Water Quality Objectives Would Unduly Hinder the Regional Economy, Including the Businesses within the City.

Water is also a key input to the region's – and the City's – financial health. To be financially viable in California after the passage of Proposition XIII, cities need to have healthy business tax bases. Modesto's economic development is largely based on a stable and vibrant agricultural economy.

Fortunately for our city, California does have a thriving agricultural economy. In fact, California is the nation's leading producer of agricultural products. In 2012, California's farms and ranches accounted for $42.6 billion in output, with milk production being California's largest agricultural industry. Dairy products such as milk, butter, cheese, evaporated products and frozen desserts, and dairy processing directly accounted for $3.37 billion in value added. California's grape production, the state's second largest industry, accounts for $3.65 billion in direct value added. Fruit and vegetable canning, pickling, and drying, along with soft drink and ice manufacturing, added another $6.58 billion in direct valued-added sales.

These sectors account for more than 220,000 California jobs. These are statewide figures, but each and every one of these sectors is largely representative of the businesses operating directly in and around the City of Modesto. Here, as is the case throughout the San Joaquin Valley, many of the commercial businesses depend on or support agricultural production, such as food and beverage processors, wineries, canneries, dairies and other enterprises that help to process, market and sell agricultural products. In 2012, the food and beverage processing industry in Stanislaus County employed approximately 25,000 people, generated more than $8.6 billion in sector output, and added over $2.3 billion in value to the local economy.

As several speakers at the Board's December 20, 2016 hearing on the SED noted, the City of Modesto's official motto is "Water, Wealth, Contentment, Health." This simple motto reflects not only civic pride, but also the paradigm that supports the regional community. Modesto is the largest city in Stanislaus County and home to major food and beverage processors such as Gallo Wines, Frito Lay, Del Monte, Stanislaus Foods, and Seneca Foods, all of which need a stable water supply to be productive and profitable.

By reducing the available water supply and impairing its reliability, the Proposed Project will have a devastating effect on the long-term viability of the local food and beverage processing operations. The reduction in water, with no identified source of replacement, means that the proposed Water Quality Objectives will likely result in huge job losses and huge reductions in agricultural output in the region.

A 2015 economic study confirms how water is and always has been essential to the vibrancy of Modesto. This study, "The Economic Impact of Food and Beverage Processing in California and Its Cities and Counties," which was undertaken by Professor Richard J. Sexton, Professor and Chair of the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics at the University of California, Davis, found, "Food and beverage processing is responsible for 20% or more of all jobs in Kings, Merced, and Stanislaus Counties. . . ." (A true and correct copy of this study is attached as Exhibit D.)

More recent studies have further confirmed that the amount of water reductions imposed under the proposed project would cripple the City's local economy. At the December 20, 2016 hearing, the Board received testimony and a PowerPoint presentation from Stanislaus County consultants Dr. Rodney Smith and Jason Bass of Stratecon, Inc. regarding the direct economic impacts the proposed Water Quality Objectives would have on agricultural water users as well as the indirect effects the reduction in agricultural output would have on urban water users whose jobs and businesses are linked to agricultural water users. Page 31 of the Stratecon PowerPoint provides an economic Impact Summary that indicates that during non-peak and peak years, job losses resulting from the draft proposal (not including SGMA-caused job losses) would range from 1,513 to 6,653. (A true and correct copy of the Stratecon PowerPoint is attached as Exhibit E.) Simply put, the regional economy cannot absorb job losses of this magnitude. The severe economic impacts of the proposed project must be given appropriate weight, and the State Water Board must fulfill its statutory obligation to take account of these economic considerations.

5. The Proposed Water Quality Objectives Fail to Recognize That the City Cannot Make Up a Water Supply Deficit by Developing and Using Recycled Water, Since It Has Already Committed That Source.

The City of Modesto paid over $130 million to fund construction of a tertiary treatment plant to develop recycled water for delivery to Del Puerto Water District. That recycled water is delivered through the Delta-Mendota Canal and then put to beneficial use providing irrigation for agriculture within Del Puerto's service area. The City has also invested about $50 million more to cover its share of the $100 million in costs to build the recycled water delivery facilities. This project is currently under construction, and it is expected to be completed in December 2017. Ironically, the State Water Board and other state agencies supported and approved this project because it helps reduce Del Puerto's reliance on water imported from the Delta. However, because the City undertook this progressive project, which helps to protect water in the Delta, this source of recycled water is no longer available to the City. Given this existing commitment to Del Puerto, the SED's proposed Water Quality Objectives put the City in a worse position than it would have been if it had not undertaken this project.

B. The Revised Draft SED's CEQA Analysis Is Deficient.

1. The Revised Draft SED Fails to Analyze the Potential Impacts of the Proposed Changes to the Water Quality Objectives on the City's Water Supplies.

When a project will cause changes in streamflow or water supply, CEQA requires the lead agency to analyze the potential environmental effects of those changes. Protect the Historic Amador Waterways v. Amador Water Agency, 116 Cal. App. 4th 1099, 1109, 1101 (2004); Santiago County Water Dist. v. County of Orange, 118 Cal. App. 3d 818, 831 (1981) [EIR failed to provide adequate information about the project's impacts on water supplies where it was "silent on the effect of that delivery [to the proposed project] on water service elsewhere in the Water District's jurisdiction."]; see also Vineyard Area Citizens for Responsible Growth, Inc. v. City of Rancho Cordova, 40 Cal. 4th 412, 430-32 (2007).

Water supply impacts constitute physical impacts on the environment. See Pub. Res. Code § 21060.5 [defining "environment" to include water conditions "which exist within the area which will be affected by a proposed project"]. Thus, when a project causes changes in the amount of water that the water suppliers will be able to deliver, the environmental impacts of those changes must be evaluated. Central Delta Water Agency v. State Water Resources Control Bd., 124 Cal. App. 245, 271 (2004); see also Voices for Rural Living v. El Dorado Irrig. Dist., 209 Cal. App. 4th 1096, 1112 (2012) [where combined effects of climate change, increased future demands and project will reduce water supplies available to district and exacerbate the severity or environmental effects of future drought conditions, the lead agency must analyze those potential environmental impacts].

To determine the scope of a project's water supply impacts, agencies perform hydrological modeling to estimate what the water supplies would be with and without the project. See, e.g., Dry Creek Citizens Coalition v. County of Tulare, 70 Cal. App. 4th 20, 32-33 (1999); see also Planning and Conservation League v. Dept. of Water Resources, 83 Cal. App. 4th 892, 919 (2000) [faulting DWR for ignoring "repeated requests . . . to provide forecasts based on [hydrological] simulation models. . ."].

The SED does not accurately model, and therefore fails to quantify or analyze, the water supply impacts to the City of Modesto. The City operates a conjunctive use water supply system. To serve the demand of its customers, the City uses both surface water obtained under a long-term contract with Modesto Irrigation District and groundwater pumped through the City's separately owned, managed and maintained facilities. The SED does not correctly evaluate the impacts to either one of the City's two water supply sources.

- a. Because the Water Supply Effects Model Erroneously Assumes That the City Will Receive the Same Amount of Surface Water Even If the Proposed Water Quality Objectives Were Implemented, the Revised Draft SED Understates the Impact the Project Would Have on the City's Surface Water Supplies.

For each proposed Lower San Joaquin River alternative, the Revised Draft SED relies on the Water Supply Effects model to estimate the amount of diversions that would be available from the river with the implementation of the proposed Water Quality Objectives.

When the results of the Water Supply Effects modeling were post-processed, the volumes of water currently being used for municipal and industrial water supplies were "assumed not to be subject to a water shortage" and thus "were subtracted from the total diversions for each river to calculate how much water remained" for other users. In other words, for purposes of calculating Water Supply Effects, the model simply assumes that supplies to municipal service providers would not be reduced: the model projects that, even with the revised Water Quality Objective and the imposition of flow standards that reduce available surface water supplies, the City of Modesto will receive the same surface water deliveries as it is receiving under existing conditions. As the SWRCB's staff and consultants explained in the December 5, 2016 workshop on the Water Supply Effects modeling, the effects analysis "did not modify the amount of water available to the water treatment plants." In terms of the Water Supply Effects analysis, the presenters at the workshop explained "that [reduction in supply] falls on the irrigation districts rather than the municipalities." Subsequently, at the December 12, 2016 workshop, the State Water Board consultants and staff noted that the surface water supplies available to the City of Modesto were estimated as part of the water supplies available to Modesto Irrigation District. However, as noted at the December 5 workshop, rather than calculating the amount of water that the City would lose if the alternatives were implemented, the Revised Draft SED employs a "unique allocation scheme" that represents "simply a way of reoperating the system that constrains deliveries in a way that works." Using this reoperation scheme, the Revised Draft SED assumes that the surface water that Modesto Irrigation District delivers to the City was "fully delivered each year."

The assumptions that the system will be "reoperated" and deliveries to the City will continue at the same amount constitute fatal flaws in the model, which cause the Revised Draft SED to understate the Project's potential water supply impacts to the City. As the State Water Board has acknowledged, the City receives its surface water supply under a contract with Modesto Irrigation District. That contract does not prioritize the delivery of surface water to the City over deliveries to other Modesto Irrigation District customers. Rather, Section 17.1 of the agreement explicitly provides that the City's surface water supplies are subject to shortage when Modesto Irrigation District's supplies are short:

District promises and agrees to treat District's agricultural customers and City on a parity basis. If District is required to reduce deliveries, it will cut back its deliveries to its agricultural customers and to City in equal proportions.

Exh. A, § 17.1. There is no factual basis to support the SED's assumptions that the system will be "reoperated" so that the impacts of the proposed actions will fall entirely on irrigation demands and the City's surface water supplies will be unaffected. Consequently, the modeling results understate the project's water supply impacts on the City.

b. The Water Supply Effects Model Understates the City's Future Level of Demand and Therefore Does Not Accurately Depict the Project's Impact on the City's Planned Future Beneficial Use of Water.

The Water Supply Effects model also erroneously assumes that the City's demand for surface water will remain at the 2009 baseline level throughout the duration of the Lower San Joaquin River Water Quality Objective. This assumption is unrealistic. As the economy has recovered since 2009, the City's water demand and deliveries have increased. Consistent with its legal obligations, the City has adopted a General Plan that plans for its long-term growth, and it has analyzed and planned for the additional water demand that this growth will generate. The City's agreement with Modesto Irrigation District accommodates the City's need for more surface water to meet future demand, but the Proposed Project undercuts that source of supply. By holding the City at an artificially low 2009 level of surface water demand, the Water Supply Effects model obfuscates the magnitude of the water supply deficit that the Proposed Project will cause for the City. By ignoring the City's planned future beneficial use of this water, the Revised Draft SED violates both CEQA and Water Code section 13241.

c. The State Water Board Must Correct the Faulty Assumptions of the Water Supply Effects Model and Re-Run the Model to Determine the Proposed Project's Potential Water Supply Impacts to the City.

As a result of the faulty assumptions detailed above, the Water Supply Effects model is defective. Where, as here, the model is clearly inadequate to forecast or evaluate the project's full spectrum of possible impacts, it does not constitute substantial evidence of the project's potential water supply impacts. East Sacramento Partnership for a Livable City v. City of Sacramento, 5 Cal. App. 5th 281, 299 (2016); Town of Atherton v. California High-Speed Rail Authority, 228 Cal. App. 4th 314, 349 (2014); State Water Resources Control Bd. Cases, 136 Cal. App. 4th 674, 795 (2006). As shown above, the false assumptions in the Water Supply Effects model render invalid its analysis of the Proposed Project's impacts on the City's surface water supply. For the State Water Board to determine the actual scope of this project's impacts on the City's surface water supply, it must correct these errors and re-run the modeling analysis.

d. The Errors in the Water Supply Effects Modeling Results Infect the Revised Draft SED's Calculation of the Impact on the City's Groundwater Supplies.

Because the Revised Draft SED erroneously assumes that the City will receive the same level of surface water supplies under the Proposed Project, it also understates the Proposed Project's impacts on the City's groundwater supplies. The results of the Water Supply Effects model were used as the input to the model that was used to estimate groundwater effects. As shown above, the Water Supply Effects model contains faulty assumptions, so it incorrectly indicated the City's surface water supplies would not be reduced. The Revised Draft SED used this result – no surface water supply reduction – as the input for the groundwater effects model. The groundwater effects model therefore fails to account for the increased groundwater demand that the City will have due to the Proposed Project's reduction in the City's surface water supplies. Consequently, the groundwater effects model underestimates the impacts to the City's groundwater supplies.

e. The Groundwater Effects Model Fails to Include Accurate Estimates of the City's Groundwater Demands and Falsely Assumes the City Can Meet Future Needs by Increasing Pumping to 2009 Levels.

Although the Revised Draft SED models the impacts to the groundwater supplies for the irrigation districts, it inexplicably fails to model or quantify the impacts to the City's groundwater supply. The impacts to the City's groundwater supplies are reasonably foreseeable and capable of being estimated using the models; this step cannot be skipped. "When an agency preparing an EIR is obliged to examine future events that are difficult to forecast, the agency 'must use its best efforts to find out and disclose all that it reasonably can.'" Planning and Conservation League v. Castaic Lake Water Agency, 180 Cal. App. 4th 210, 242 (2009); State CEQA Guidelines, 14 C.C.R. § 15144. In fact, for the Turlock subbasin, the groundwater modeling neglects even to identify the City of Modesto as one of the users of that groundwater, when publicly available data confirm that the City withdraws about 5000 acre-feet per year from that subbasin. The Revised Draft SED's failure to include the City's demand in the Turlock subbasin confirms that the SED's groundwater modeling is clearly inadequate and cannot be used as substantial evidence to support the SED's conclusions about the project's impacts.

For the other subbasins, the SED's groundwater modeling identifies the City as a water user, but the Revised Draft SED simply assumes that future municipal demands can be met with increased groundwater pumping. At the December 12 workshop, State Water Board staff and consultants indicated that the groundwater model "assumes districts can increase their groundwater pumping up to the maximum capacity" using a 2009 baseline. Given the new legal framework imposed by SGMA, increasing pumping up to the maximum capacity does not appear to be a legally feasible method of resolving the water supply deficits imposed by the Proposed Water Quality Objectives. Indeed, at the workshop, the State Water Board staff was not willing to state whether the 2009 baseline level of groundwater pumping would be sustainable under SGMA. Considering that admission, the record lacks substantial evidence to support the conclusion that pumping can be increased up to the maximum capacity attained in 2009. Thus, the groundwater modeling contains inaccurate assumptions that mask the Proposed Project's potential impacts on the City's water supplies. In fact, if the City is not able to increase its groundwater pumping to make up for the reduction in surface water supplies and to cover additional future water demands, the Proposed Project will cause the City to suffer a water supply shortage.

2. The Proposed Project's Cumulative Impacts on the City's Water Supply Must Be Analyzed.

CEQA requires lead agencies to answer two questions to determine whether a project will have cumulative impacts. First, the agency must determine whether the effects of the proposed project, in combination with other projects, would be cumulatively considerable. If so, the agency must then evaluate whether the project's incremental contribution is cumulatively considerable. Communities for a Better Environment v. California Resources Agency, 103 Cal. App. 4th 98, 120 (2002), disapproved on other grounds in Berkeley Hillside Preservation v. City of Berkeley, 60 Cal. 4th 1086, 1109 n. 3 (2015). When the project's incremental effect is cumulatively considerable, the EIR must discuss the project's cumulative impacts. San Francisco Baykeeper v. State Lands Comm'n, 242 Cal. App. 4th 202, 222 (2015). On the other hand, if the cumulative impact is insignificant or if the project's incremental contribution to the impact is not cumulatively considerable, the EIR need not conduct a full cumulative impacts analysis, but it must include a brief explanation of the basis for the agency's conclusions. San Francisco Baykeeper v. State Lands Comm'n, 242 Cal. App. 4th 202, 222 (2015).

A project's cumulative environmental impact cannot be deemed insignificant merely because its individual contribution to an existing environmental problem is relatively small. San Francisco Baykeeper v. State Lands Comm'n, 242 Cal. App. 4th 202, 223 (2015), citing Kings County Farm Bureau v. City of Hanford, 221 Cal. App. 3d 692, 718-21 (1990). To the contrary, "the greater the existing environmental problems are, the lower the threshold should be for treating a project's contribution to cumulative impacts as significant." San Francisco Baykeeper v. State Lands Comm'n, 242 Cal. App. 4th 202, 222 (2015); Communities for a Better Environment v. California Resources Agency, 103 Cal. App. 4th 98, 120 (2002).

Proper analysis of the cumulative impacts on groundwater supplies must consider the impacts of the Proposed Project in combination with all future conditions that will constrain these supplies, including implementation of SGMA, multi-year droughts, and more stringent drinking water standards. The Proposed Project will reduce surface water deliveries, which will cause increased demand for, and pumping of, groundwater. In the future, groundwater supplies will also be constrained as SGMA is implemented and parties are prohibited from extracting more than the "safe yield" of the groundwater basins. Furthermore, as we have seen during the recent drought conditions in 2014-15, water users turn to groundwater in critical dry periods when surface supplies are unavailable. Droughts are a reasonably foreseeable fact of life in California, and agencies must evaluate the potential impacts of a project during future drought conditions. Voices for Rural Living v. El Dorado Irrig. Dist., 209 Cal. App. 4th 1096, 1111-12 (2012). Imposing higher instream flows and reducing surface water supplies to the City and other users while simultaneously curtailing their access to groundwater supplies will obviously affect the reliability of their water supplies. Those impacts will be even more severe in very dry years when demand for groundwater is higher.

The Revised Draft SED makes no attempt to analyze these impacts. Rather, it simply dismisses these reasonably foreseeable impacts as "speculative." At the "Technical State Water Board Staff/ Community Water Interests Meeting" held on November 18, 2016, the City's Director of Utilities, Larry Parlin, inquired about this and received the following response from Deputy Director of Water Rights Les Grober:

MR. PARLIN: Reductions in water supply to the urban users. Because the primary focus that everybody is talking about and is appropriate is the agricultural community, and that's important. However, there are not -- Modesto is not the only urban water user that gets from an irrigation district in the local area. You have the cities of Manteca and others that get it from South San Joaquin Irrigation District. So did you look at the protection of that drinking water supply going forward as -- for the urban water users, or are you just considering this all as agricultural water use and not looking at the fact that the urban water users do use some of that water supply?

MR. GROBER: As you pointed out, we identify the use in the -- in the documents, and that's why we identify -- and, again, it's the -- much of the same unsatisfying answer in terms of, you know, the speculative elements. We talk about, you know, water conservation, you know, what's happened in recent drought periods in terms of, you know, reduced reliance on water, what can be achieved. We also talk about water transfers and sales of water and the costs of water, marketing of water. So those were all things that -- you know, what the exact mix of that will be is, you know, cannot be determined with specificity so it would be speculative.

But there for the cities, because it is the highest use of water, and I think we even have language in our water quality control plan in terms of, you know, protecting health and safety, things like that, there's -- there are opportunities for purchasing water and for water to get to cities.

A true and correct copy of the transcript of this meeting is attached as Exhibit F.

As discussed above, the City has two sources of water supply, surface water from the Tuolumne River under its contract with Modesto Irrigation District and groundwater. The Proposed Project will reduce the former and put increased strain on the latter, which will already be reduced due to SGMA and future drought conditions. The Revised Draft SED must disclose and analyze the Proposed Project's incremental contribution to these water supply impacts. See, e.g., Napa Citizens for Honest Government v. Napa County Bd. of Supervisors, 91 Cal. App. 4th 342, 373 (2001) [when project has uncertain impact on water supplies, EIR "cannot simply label the possibility that [water supplies] will not materialize as 'speculative,' and decline to address it"; the EIR must disclose whether other sources exist and what environmental impacts would result, in at least general terms, from the use of those other sources].

3. The Revised Draft SED Must Also Analyze the Urban Decay That Will Result If the State Water Board Adopts Any of the Proposed Lower San Joaquin River Alternatives.

The State Water Board must undertake a thorough analysis of the economic devastation that could befall Modesto (and other urbanized areas of the Central Valley) if the project were implemented as currently proposed. CEQA also requires the analysis of the physical impacts that will directly or indirectly result from the forecasted economic or social effects of a proposed project. Subdivision (e) of CEQA Guidelines section 15064 provides that when the economic or social effects of a project cause a physical change, this change is to be regarded as a significant effect in the same manner as any other physical change resulting from the project. "[I]f the forecasted economic or social effects of a proposed project directly or indirectly will lead to adverse physical changes in the environment, then CEQA requires disclosure and analysis of these resulting physical impacts." Bakersfield Citizens for Local Control v. City of Bakersfield, 124 Cal. App. 4th 1184, 1205 (2004).

The SED acknowledges that the surface water supply reductions imposed by the proposed Lower San Joaquin River alternatives will be substantial enough that current water users will need to seek new sources of water to support their future growth and development. As noted above, the State Water Board has not identified any sources of replacement water and has undertaken no study of the economic effects of the proposal on the City of Modesto's urban economy. Rather, the SED simply dismisses these impacts, saying they are all speculative to evaluate.

As discussed above, the project's proposed surface water reductions will prevent growth and hinder proposed economic development, and the impacts will be of such a size and scope that they will alter the regional economy. As such, they will contribute to urban decay, which must be analyzed as an element of the State Water Board's environmental review.

Moreover, as also discussed above, many of the jobs and most of the households in Modesto are directly or indirectly dependent upon a vibrant agricultural economy. Given this fact, neither the City of Modesto nor the surrounding region can absorb job losses of the magnitude that will likely result from the implementation of the proposed project without substantial urban decay. As the Bakersfield Citizens court noted:

It is apparent . . . that proposed new shopping centers do not trigger a conclusive presumption of urban decay. However, when there is evidence suggesting that the economic and social effects caused by the proposed [project] ultimately could result in urban decay or deterioration, then the lead agency is obligated to assess this indirect impact. Many factors are relevant, including the size of the project, the type of retailers and their market areas and the proximity of other retail shopping opportunities. The lead agency cannot divest itself of its analytical and informational obligations by summarily dismissing the possibility of urban decay or deterioration as a 'social or economic effect' of the project.

Loss of surface water supplies will result in a substantial loss of agricultural industry wealth in Modesto; loss of wealth will result in a substantial degradation of Modesto's urban environment. The potential for substantial urban decay in Modesto that would result from the project mandates that the Board undertake a comprehensive analysis of the physical impacts the project will have on urban water customers and the domestic economy prior to project approval.

CONCLUSION

The City of Modesto appreciates the opportunity to submit these comments on the proposed amendments to the Water Quality Objectives of the Bay-Delta Plan and the SED's environmental analysis of that project.

As shown above, implementation of the proposed Water Quality Objectives would impose severe reductions on the City's surface water supplies and cause increased demand for groundwater pumping, both of which will have direct and indirect impacts on the City as a municipality and as a utility. Moreover, the SED itself acknowledges that there are no known sources of replacement supplies. However, the Revised Draft SED fails to undertake the statutorily required balancing of interests, nor does it accurately disclose, quantify or analyze the impacts to the City. Thus, the Revised Draft SED is fatally deficient. More critically, if the impacts to the City had been properly assessed, the State Water Board would realize that the Proposed Project threatens to strike a potentially fatal blow to the City's growth, development and economy.

We urge the State Water Board to carefully consider these comments and the impacts that its decision will have in the real world, on the real people who make up our community. If this process continues and the matter comes before the Board for a decision, we hope that the State Water Board members will exercise the utmost care in carrying out their statutory obligation to strike an appropriate balance amongst the competing uses of this water – and we respectfully suggest that none of the existing Lower San Joaquin River alternatives meets this standard.

Should you have any questions about the City's position or any of the comments set forth above, please do not hesitate to contact Larry Parlin, Director of Utilities.

Sincerely,

Dear Chairwoman Marcus,

I'm writing to express the grave concerns with the State Water Resources Control Board's proposed actions on behalf of the City of Merced and our 82,000 residents in the Central Valley.

It is imperative to us that our distress over your proposal is included in the official record on the Draft Revised Substitute Environmental Document (SED). We urge you once more to heed the requests of the numerous cities, school districts, and concerned residents who have voiced their opposition to the Bay-Delta Plan. In an area that is largely dependent on agriculture, a proposal that increases the unimpaired flows of the Merced, Stanislaus, and Tuolumne rivers by 40% would devastate a region that has only just now begun to heal from five years of drought.

The public hearings held in Merced and Modesto this past December provided ample evidence that local stakeholders have been left out of a process that will severely impact every aspect of their lives. Safe and reliable access to drinking water, our economic vitality, and our very way of life would be jeopardized by your proposed plan.

Given the serious implications of your proposal, there should have been a credible effort to involve us throughout the development phase, but this simply didn't happen. By allowing stakeholders to comment on the plan only after it was released, you have excluded our region from providing valuable local knowledge that could have been used by your scientists and technical experts to create a plan that appropriately balances the competing priorities under your consideration.

To us, "significant, but unavoidable" is more than a term of art – it is a tangible threat and a clear statement of willful disregard for our safety, sustainability, and livelihoods. By failing to include our region in the development process, you have marginalized a community that already suffers from economic challenges and is home to many minority and disadvantage communities. Simply put: we deserve better.

I urge you to give consideration to the voices of our community and revise the current plan to reflect the needs of all the parties involved.

Dear Chairwoman Marcus:

Please allow my letter to convey the alarming concern with the State Water Resource Control Board's proposed actions, which is held by officials of the City of Dos Palos, a community which provides water services to over 8,000 Central Valley residents.

As we approach the public comment deadline, it is essential to us that our distress over your proposal is included in the official record on the revised SED. Once more, we urge you to heed the requests of the numerous cities, school districts, and concerned residents who have voiced their opposition to the Bay-Delta Plan. In an area, almost entirely dependent on agriculture, a proposal which increases the unimpaired flows of the Merced, Stanislaus, and Tuolumne Rivers by 35% would devastate this region which is just now beginning to heal from many years of drought.

Our new mayor, April Hogue, attended the public hearing in Merced this past December, and along with public hearings held in Modesto, ample evidence was provided, that local stakeholders have been left out of a process that will gravely impact every aspect of our lives. Safe and reliable access to drinking water, our economic vitality, and our very way of life would all be jeopardized by your proposed plan.

Dear Chairwoman Marcus:

I am writing this letter to express the City of Patterson's concerns over the Bay-Delta Plan proposed by the State Water Resources Control Board.

As we near the public comment deadline, it is imperative to us that our distress over your proposal is included in the official record on the revised SED. Therefore, we urge you once more to heed the requests of the numerous cities, school districts, and concerned residents who have voiced their opposition to the Bay-Delta Plan. In an area that is largely dependent on agriculture, a proposal that increases the unimpaired flows of the Merced, Stanislaus, and Tuolumne Rivers by 35% would devastate a region that has only just now begun to heal from five years of drought. This adds salt to the wounds already created with recent State conservation and drought regulations and the new Sustainable Groundwater Management Act. The Ground Water Act will eventually require Cities that are currently dependent on ground water to purchase some sort of surface water. Increasing unimpaired flows could make surface water purchases impossible.

The public hearings held in Merced and Modesto this past December provided ample evidence that local stakeholders have been left out of a process that will severely impact every aspect of their lives. Safe and reliable access to drinking water, our economic vitality, and our very way of life would all be jeopardized by the proposed plan.

Subject: 2016 BAY DELTA PLAN AMENDMENT & SED

Dear Board,

Food

I'm sure you are aware that California is the nation's leading producer agriculture products. In 2012 California's farms and ranches accounted for $42.6 billion in economic output, with milk production being California's largest agricultural industry.

Across the dairy products sectors, milk, butter, cheese, evaporated products and frozen desserts, dairy processing directly accounted for $3.37 billion in value added.

California's grape production, the State's second largest account for $3.65 billion in direct value added.

Fruit and vegetable canning, pickling, and drying; and soft drink and ice manufacturing sectors were responsible $6.58 billion in direct valued added sales.

In terms of employment these sectors accounted for more than 220,000 jobs. These are statewide figures, but each and every one of these sectors is largely representative of the businesses operating directly in and around Modesto. The food and beverage processing industry in Stanislaus County employs approximately 25,000 people and adds a value of over $2.3 billion to the local economy.

Why this is important is the proposed State Water Resources Control Board action by implementing the 2016 Bay Delta Plan Amendment & SED will have significant negative effect on the long-term viability of the local food and beverage industries. Many of the food processing industries in the Modesto area will experience the devastating economic consequences, as well as nearly every family living in Stanislaus County. If adopted as proposed, there will be smaller crop production, increased water cost, and a reduced competitive market in the local, national, and world markets.

The 1995 Water Quality Control Plan designates beneficial uses and it does recognize Municipal & Industrial use as an important beneficial use. The SED will undervalue the municipal uses and fails to strike an appropriate balance among the competing uses of the water. That means urban water users will not be a priority when considered by SED against environmental uses.

For decades, Modesto has aggressively been planning and building an environmentally, eco-friendly, conjunctive reliable water supply. The just completed $200 million "phase 2" Modesto surface water treatment plant combined with "phase 1" will ultimately produce approximately 60,000 AF of drinking water to supply water to Modesto, and perhaps other communities for the next 40 years.

Additionally, when completed this fall/winter 2017, the $100 million dollar recycled water project will produce ultimately 35,000 AF of water a year for agricultural use. All told, the surface, aquifer and recycled water programs are a model for integrated water management. What a significant accomplishment for a city in California, but now the expected rewards of smart environmental planning have turned, in part, to liabilities, especially to cities such as Modesto with a conjunctive water system.

The mandated water reductions of the State Water Board in 2016 on municipal water users combined with severe flows restrictions expected in the SED on the lower San Joaquin Tributaries will have a crippling effect on Modesto's water system. The SED rules do not consider beneficial use or credit for recycle water.

First consider the economic impacts already realized during state mandated drought restrictions.

Modesto completed significant reductions by the end of 2010. In 2016 mandated drought restrictions, unfairly imposed to municipal systems, caused fixed operations rate increases to customers of 25%. Had volumes restriction not been imposed the inflationary increase would have been spread out to a modest 2-3% increase.

With the SED unimpaired flows caused reductions and concurrent increased fixed costs, Modesto municipal water customers will be burdened with a larger fixed cost, and likely idle up to 50% the surface water treatment plant.

None of this was considered remotely possible when planning Modesto's future water supply with its water supplier Modesto Irrigation District back 1995.

Shared Burden

Modesto has been environmentally conscious with water use and continues to improve on its system and conservation, as is evident by the current investment for the future. My question is can the State make the same claim?

California transfers water from the Delta. This includes water from the Stanislaus, Tuolumne, Merced, and San Joaquin rivers in the south, and the Sacramento, American, Feather, and many others rivers in the north. This allows the State Water project to deliver 2.4 million AF of water each year from the Banks Pumping Plant.

The Central Valley Project is a federal water management project. On average, the Central Valley Project delivers 5.6 million AF of water each year, and both the State Water Project and the Central Valley Project sell water for agricultural, wildlife, management, and municipal use<sup>1</sup>.

On average, California and the Federal Government serve easily the needs of more than 210 California cities through their municipal water systems (Table 1).

Included in Table 1 is information from the State Water Resources Control Board combined with information from the Water Education Foundation. Though this information is not complete in the sense of in-depth study, but an analysis indicates the information in the table is accurate. Because complete information is not available, the table indicates there is a large volume of water not being accounted for.

The conclusion from this information is that 2,221,431 AF per year is the average annual possible water demand for the 221 cities receiving water from the rivers that flow through the Delta or the Delta itself. Coincidentally, nearly all cities in this table did not maintain a reduction in their water consumption using the State mandated self-certification stress test for conservation last year. Conversely, the SED proposes that some cities, including Modesto, not only will be required to maintain significant conservation by the stress test methodology, but additionally, along with all of those relying on water from tributaries of the San Joaquin, bear the brunt of the devastating consequences from the unimpaired flow restrictions.

My point is that the State and Federal Government are pumping too much water from the Delta to begin with! If each of the 221 cities listed herein would reduce their urban water use by less than 14%, it would clearly meet the goals of about delivering 300,000 AF per year of unimpaired flows proposed by the SED.

However, the SED wants to put the entire burden on those in the southern San Joaquin River tributaries. This clearly is not correcting the problem, which is that the state and federal government are taking too much water from the Delta. What's next 60% of unimpaired flows or 70% of unimpaired flows? Shouldn't the issue be everyone needs to share in the sacrifice? Isn't this an issue that everyone needs to be part of the solution?

Sincerely,

Our water supply is under threat by the State Water Resources Control Board. They are creating, in their own words, a "Regulatory Drought" for our Valley with their plan to permanently take 40% of the water from our rivers. Thousands of people showed up at hearings in Merced and Modesto urging the Board to reconsider their plan, and thousands more have already signed petitions to send a message to the Board. The Water Board knows how badly their plan will impact those of us who live here. The draft plan states that there would be "significant but unavoidable impacts" to our area. We the undersigned oppose this plan.

Thousands of people showed up at hearings in Merced and Modesto urging the Board to reconsider their plan, and thousands more have already signed petitions to send a message to the Board. The Water Board knows how badly their plan will impact those of us who live here. The draft plan states that there would be "significant but unavoidable impacts" to our area. We the undersigned oppose this plan.

Join Assemblymember Adam Gray's Petition of Opposition to SED Plan

Our water supply is under threat by the State Water Resources Control Board. They are creating, in their own words, a "Regulatory Drought" for our Valley with their plan to permanently take 40% of the water from our rivers. Thousands of people showed up at hearings in Merced and Modesto urging the Board to reconsider their plan, and thousands more have already signed petitions to send a message to the Board. The Water Board knows how badly their plan will impact those of us who live here. The draft plan states that there would be "significant but unavoidable impacts" to our area. We the undersigned oppose this plan.

Join Adam Gray and your Valley neighbors by signing this petition to demand that the State Water Board involve local stakeholders in the process to update the Bay Delta Plan! Let the Board know that you oppose any plan to take more water from our rivers unless the impacts to our area are fully mitigated!

The 2012 Plan said that there would be "significant but unavoidable consequences" to our area. The State Water Board will soon release the new draft of the Bay-Delta Plan for comments and final action. We cannot afford to be silent on this issue, sign this petition now!

JOIN THE ONLINE PETITION TO PROTECT OUR WATER

Join Adam Gray and your Valley neighbors by signing this petition to demand that the State Water Board involve local stakeholders in the process to update the Bay Delta Plan! Let the Board know that you oppose any plan to take more water from our rivers unless the impacts to our area are fully mitigated!

The 2012 Plan said that there would be "significant but unavoidable consequences" to our area. The State Water Board will soon release the new draft of the Bay-Delta Plan for comments and final action. We cannot afford to be silent on this issue, sign this petition now!

The regulatory drought nerds to come to an end. It is affecting
ALL of the residents of California and it's impact is stretching beyond our state lines as the regulatory drought's financial impact affects our country as a whole and limits the food we can produce for those in need. Increasing our water storage ultimately leads to a more sustainable California as with more available surface water we can significantly reduce our dependence on groundwater and actually help stop subsidence by recharging aquifers.

Stop trying to destroy our state by depleting our Central Valley water resources so that we can't grow the abundant crops needed to supply the country with food. Not only will we not have the needed water, it will kill the economy for our farmers. This is sheer lunacy! Build dams where you need water. Build desalinization plants where there's not enough water to store ! That makes sense. More water is better. Duh! Get it right or get out! Stop trying to destroy our great state.

Quit diverting OUR WATER! Water is essential for not only feeding the majority of the country, but for giving jobs to people. You want to support immigration? Support keeping OUR WATER IN CALIFORNIA!!!! And forget about the protection of Smelt! If Florida can rebuild their coral reefs from using live coral that is literally smashed, then thrives in tanks, to be replanted into reefs, which are beginning to flourish beautifully, despite mans destruction. Then I'm certain Biologists can build tanks to preserve the Smelt, once they figure out their purposes. We need water to survive as well as the coral reefs, which produce oxygen, also needed for survival. What does the Smelt do???????

develop and implement an action plan towards water conservation efforts with firm non-negotiable deadlines and also examine and address the performance of the water boards and how they can better serve the communities they represent .
Releasing that much water because of no areas to contain and also evacuating people in the Oroville case should never happen again. Also, using water as a power tool or economic resource by selling to highest bidder while leaving wells dry in other communities as well as underground pumping for both farming

THE REGULATORY DROUGHT

I oppose the State Water Board's Plan to divert water from our rivers!

Please elected officials get your act together or resign your office.
You are placing the lives of CA citizens in danger. We need new dams for water storage and flood control. Leave the Delta water alone, southern CA deserves no more water at our expense.

If you force the release of water from the dams, we will not have the water needed for growing food or even drinking water. If you continue on this crazy direction, you will have a hungry and dry state without the means to provide for our families or the means to fill our bellies, or anyone else's! California grows food, without water, we cannot grow food! Food exporting will be gone for the state, food processing will be gone, food growing will be gone and all the millions of jobs associated with each phase of the process. Releasing water from dams not to crops or for drinking is not a reasonable option. We have already had years of drought where wells went dry. Now you would be literally making the drought worse being self inflicted. We have gone from being able to water our yards from everyday to one day a week only for certain hours. Irrigation has gone from irrigating crops every ten days unlimited to every twenty days with only receiving about 36 inches max of water. That was possible only through an irrigation district that has been around for over 100 years. Listen to the various irrigation districts. They have the experience that YOU NEED! They have the history of managing water that you seem to know nothing about to keep this state functioning. Please do not push forward this foolhardy water policy that will leave our state dry!

I've seen some very poor water planning in the state of California. Why do I feel there's something crooked going on. I see people being put after smelts, owls, and shrimp. Do the appointees have a clue what it's like to do without because someone without a clue is in position of authority? Mr. Gray, why do we have a "general fund" when people treat it as a small change fund at a business. I can tell you I will never vote for any appropriation as long as a "general fund" exists. When asked for a proposition to do something, I want that money to go to the specific project it was raised for and any money remaining returned to the taxpayers. The governor now wants to raise gas tax to repair roads but there is no guarantee that the roads will be fixed because it goes to the grab-bag general fund. If the water board really had Californians in mind, they would be looking at Friant Dam, McClure Dam, and many other small dams. Many dams were constructed when the population of California was one-half what it is today. If the water board would get it's head out of its ass it would concentrate on much, much more storage of water to prevent the flooding that occurs and a continued source of river flow to keep the sea water from intruding on the delta. I'm sorry , that might take some common sense!!! What am I thinking??

My observation is that the more the government and related agencies try to "fix" things, the worse they get, especially if special interest groups and individuals make any money off it! I'm in favor of letting nature take its course when it comes to fish. Somehow they've survived for millenia, ebbing and flowing according to their own innate survival instincts. In the mean time, let's steward the water God gives us in precipitation by exercising our dominion to create more water storage. Fish and people can get a lot of benefits and enjoyment out of lakes and controlled rivers. We certainly don't want to pay elected officials and government employees and bureaucrats to harm us!

Absolutely!! Here we have been in a very real drought in California for many many years. Instead of fixing our water preservation systems in California they planned the high speed rail. During the years of drought, California should have been constructing desalination plants , repairing reservoirs and dams, and just plain and simply preparing for when rain finally decides to grace our lands. I live in the Central Valley, and everyone that I run into is absolutely fed up with California government officials who are trying to deliberately destroy us. We need government officials here who care like the new president does. Care about the home that you live in and start making common sense choices on important issues that we need to make California survive. Save our water!!! Stop wasting it out to the ocean. Last I heard the ocean has plenty of its own water and doesn't need any of parched Californian water. Thanks for your time

The California Water boards lack of regulation (on themselves) and poor over site has got to stop. What has transpired with the "temporary" water restrictions on the common man has made another injection into the bureaucracy that is California. Now that regulations and restrictions are in place the CAWB, does not want to reduce restrictions on the general Californian. What the CAWB does allow to happen is they absolve themselves of any restrictions or over site and continue water resource mismanagement unabated. This has got to stop and until some one steps in, the CAWB will continue operations as they see fit. A frustrated Californian.

By allowing farmers across the Central Valley the water they require to sustain their agricultural needs, we are ensuring that California will continue to be a top producer of nuts, fruits and other products that are essential to the complex Californian economy. Please, allow our farmers and agricultural producers the water they need to continue to produce the products that are loved around the world.

I'm a native Californian. A senior citizen. California's drought is man made and our water supply had been mismanaged for decades. There are options with better balance available that still protect the environment yet improve water storage and availability for human use. Seek those other options. Recently someone commented to me that "over-regulated California is owned by environmental groups." Please recall that people also share this environment and your decisions also impact those people. Justify your decisions to include not just impact on the environment, but also impact on residents and the regional economy. Find a better balance.

and history of water and power in the area put together by farmers for farmers and the communities in this community. When I was in middle grade school in 1956 my grandfather took me to see and tour the old don Pedro concrete dam inside and out. He explained to me the features of the structure and its workings to hold water and meter it out over the season as well to generate power and meter falling water to supply electricity for all our use in the irrigation districts. He took me back down the roads along the river and showed me portions of the old wooded flumes that carried water into the Turlock lake and then into the main canals and the distribution canals that conveyed water to the fields. through (at one time were open dirt ditches) now concrete ditches and pipelines that brought water to our fields. Then he explained to me the blood sweat and tears and hard work along with the "taxes" that the farmers land paid to build the dam and electric power system with the irrigation system that we now use to water our crops. After that trip back to this valley He took me to Waterford by the river and explained to me what the river and canyon revealed in the flows along with the depth and breath of the river canyon. At that point He explained to me that before the dam the river would be so low in the late summer and fall that one could walk across and never get ones feet wet. There was not enough fish in the river to feed a small town and never has been. While I was in schools in the area the rational for building a new dam was to be able to go through 4 to 5 years of drought and not be in a short supply of water for irrigating crops. If the coastal areas of San Francisco and Los Angeles want a long term solution to their water problem, then they need to build a desalination plant for their areas. Yes, it would raise their rates a bit, but it would supply an unlimited amount of water without hurting the valley and the farmers who supply much of the food. It would be wise for them to take a look at what Israel did during their drought. Unfortunately, the powers that be in this side of the world do not use wisdom, only greed and indifference to those that do not fit into their schemes.

Stop the mandatory regulatory drought and quit diverting the water away to the highest bidder or next water grab , plan ahead for future water problems by building more storage rather than being forced to let it all run out needlessly.

JOIN THE ONLINE PETITION TO PROTECT OUR WATER

Join Adam Gray and your Valley neighbors by signing this petition to demand that the State Water Board involve local stakeholders in the process to update the Bay Delta Plan! Let the Board know that you oppose any plan to take more water from our rivers unless the impacts to our area are fully mitigated!

The 2012 Plan said that there would be "significant but unavoidable consequences" to our area. The State Water Board will soon release the new draft of the Bay-Delta Plan for comments and final action. We cannot afford to be silent on this issue, sign this petition now!

JOIN THE ONLINE PETITION TO PROTECT OUR WATER

Join Adam Gray and your Valley neighbors by signing this petition to demand that the State Water Board involve local stakeholders in the process to update the Bay Delta Plan! Let the Board know that you oppose any plan to take more water from our rivers unless the impacts to our area are fully mitigated!

The 2012 Plan said that there would be "significant but unavoidable consequences" to our area. The State Water Board will soon release the new draft of the Bay-Delta Plan for comments and final action. We cannot afford to be silent on this issue, sign this petition now!

JOIN THE ONLINE PETITION TO PROTECT OUR WATER

Join Adam Gray and your Valley neighbors by signing this petition to demand that the State Water Board involve local stakeholders in the process to update the Bay Delta Plan! Let the Board know that you oppose any plan to take more water from our rivers unless the impacts to our area are fully mitigated!

The 2012 Plan said that there would be "significant but unavoidable consequences" to our area. The State Water Board will soon release the new draft of the Bay-Delta Plan for comments and final action. We cannot afford to be silent on this issue, sign this petition now!

Such an important issue should be taken after 2042, once SGMA has reduced the uncertainty and the water accounting is tightened and made more well understood. By then the tools would have been created to scientifically make a sound decision and know what the benefits are as well as the consequences. Too much is at stake to rush into a decision now, which will be devastating to farmers, families, communities, children, elders, schools, businesses, disadvantaged communities. The fish can wait, they can always be farmed and planted at a later date.

JOIN THE ONLINE PETITION TO PROTECT OUR WATER

Join Adam Gray and your Valley neighbors by signing this petition to demand that the State Water Board involve local stakeholders in the process to update the Bay Delta Plan! Let the Board know that you oppose any plan to take more water from our rivers unless the impacts to our area are fully mitigated!

The 2012 Plan said that there would be "significant but unavoidable consequences" to our area. The State Water Board will soon release the new draft of the Bay-Delta Plan for comments and final action. We cannot afford to be silent on this issue, sign this petition now!

Save our Water

Thanks

We will share comments with the California Water Resources Control Board so they can hear from the people who live, work or care about the Valley which will be impacted by their regulations. We may e-mail you with occasional updates and important information to keep you informed and you may unsubscribe at anytime by clicking the unsubscribe button on any e-mail and you will no longer be sent any further e-mail info and updates from us. Remember together we can all protect the Valley which is our home.

JOIN THE ONLINE PETITION TO PROTECT OUR WATER

Join Adam Gray and your Valley neighbors by signing this petition to demand that the State Water Board involve local stakeholders in the process to update the Bay Delta Plan! Let the Board know that you oppose any plan to take more water from our rivers unless the impacts to our area are fully mitigated!

The 2012 Plan said that there would be "significant but unavoidable consequences" to our area. The State Water Board will soon release the new draft of the Bay-Delta Plan for comments and final action. We cannot afford to be silent on this issue, sign this petition now!
