

Presenter Bio:

Dr. Steinberg is a geospatial professional specializing in the design, management, integration, analysis and visualization of geospatially-based information. He has extensive experience with geospatial analysis technologies including geographic information systems (GIS), remote sensing and image analysis across a wide range of environmental applications. Dr. Steinberg has presented and published extensively in the geospatial