

Ali Dunn is an environmental scientist with the Surface Water Ambient Monitoring Program (SWAMP) and co-lead for the Freshwater HABs Program. Her work focuses on integrating watershed science and biology with policy. Her past experience includes work in municipal storm water, habitat conservation planning, and habitat restoration.