

		SAN DIEGO REGION key areas for the key use of:
		DRINKING WATER SUPPLY (DW)	FISH & SHELLFISH CONSUMPTION	RECREATION		HABITATS & ECOSYSTEMS
				REC-1	REC-2
key water body types and key individual harbors and bays for the key use	first (highest) rank	DW reservoirs	ocean	ocean	ocean San Diego Bay Mission Bay	ocean San Diego Bay lagoons / estuaries stream systems second rank	groundwater	San Diego Bay Mission Bay	Mission Bay	Dana Point Harbor Oceanside Harbor lagoons / estuaries	Mission Bay stream mouths third rank	xx	Dana Point Harbor Oceanside Harbor lagoons / estuaries	San Diego Bay Dana Point Harbor	stream mouths stream systems	ponds harbors (all three) areas of special importance for the key use		DW reservoirs directly connected to a drinking water treatment & distribution system - especially parts of such reservoirs from which water is withdrawn for treatment & distribution to consumers	areas intensively used for subsistence take of fish &/or shellfish	shoreline waters open to the public for REC-1 - especially near sandy beaches	shoreline waters open to the public for REC-1 - especially near sandy beaches	areas with habitats or ecosystems of special importance or value (or where such habitats or ecosystems could be restored) areas for which fish &/or shellfish consumption advisories have been issued		shoreline waters at, in, or visible from designated recreation areas (such as parks) groundwater basins intensively used for drinking water supply - especially parts of such groundwater basins from which water is withdrawn for treatment & distribution to consumers		shoreline waters visible from other areas open to the public	designated areas with special protections for fish, wildlife, habitats &/or ecosystems