

If you are not a cannabis cultivator, please refer to the final paragraph of this document.

Cannabis cultivators are required to comply with, among other requirements of the Cannabis Cultivation Policy, either existing instream flow requirements (e.g. State Water Board Orders, Biological Opinions, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission Licensing Program) or the Tessmann instream flow requirements, whichever is greater. Based upon the user entered point of diversion in the Online Cannabis Compliance Gage Mapping Tool (Online Mapping Tool), your diversion is subject to an existing instream flow requirement. Prior to diverting any water for cannabis cultivation, please contact the State Water Board for further guidance by email CannabisWR@waterboards.ca.gov or phone (916) 341-5363 and provide your name, contact information, Small Irrigation and Use Registration Application Number, and Area ID displayed on the Online Mapping Tool (see image below) for your point of diversion.

If you are not a cannabis cultivator, an existing flow requirement has been identified for the stream reach you have selected. For additional information, please contact the State Water Board by email at CannabisWR@waterboards.ca.gov or phone (916) 341-5363 and provide your name, contact information, and the name and/or coordinates of the stream reach you are inquiring about.
