Preface

The Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) is the statistical classification standard underlying all establishment-based Federal economic statistics classified by industry. The SIC is used to promote the comparability of establishment data describing various facets of the U.S. economy. The classification covers the entire field of economic activities and defines industries in accordance with the composition and structure of the economy. It is revised periodically to reflect the economy's changing industrial organization. This manual incorporates the first major revision since 1972.

On February 22, 1984, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) published a Federal Register notice of intent to revise the Standard Industrial Classification for 1987. In response, businesses, trade associations, individuals, and Federal, State, and local government agencies submitted proposals for over 1100 individual changes.

To provide technical advice for the 1987 SIC revision and to make recommendations on the individual proposals, OMB established a multiagency Technical Committee on Industrial Classification (TCIC). The TCIC (listed below) is chaired by OMB and consists of senior economists, statisticians, and classification specialists representing Federal agencies that use the SIC. To aid in its review, the TCIC established subcommittees for Construction; Manufacturing; Trade (Wholesale and Retail); Communications; Transportation and Public Utilities; Finance, Insurance, and Real Estate; Services; and Computers. The TCIC evaluated each of the proposed changes and recommended approximately 40 percent for acceptance and inclusion in the revised SIC.

The 1987 SIC revision has taken into account technological changes; institutional changes such as deregulation in the banking, communications, and transportation industries; and the tremendous expansion in the service sector. In addition, changes have been made to improve industry detail, coverage, and definitions, and to clarify classification concepts and the classification of individual activities.

The revision has resulted in a net increase of 19 industries for Services (Division I), 8 for Wholesale Trade, and 7 for Manufacturing, with a net decrease of 34 for the other SIC Divisions. Deleted industries are merged into other industries and new industries are created by subdividing or restructuring existing industries. Various industries have also been changed by transfers of individual activities, primarily to increase the accuracy, consistency, and usefulness of the classifications. A few industries are renumbered without any change in content as a consequence of restructuring the classification at the three-digit level.

Revision of the SIC is a large task that requires the time, energy, and cooperation of numerous individuals and organizations both inside and outside the Government. The publication of this manual is a testament to the willingness of many people to contribute to that task. In addition to the individuals and organizations who developed and submitted proposals for changing the SIC, the revision could not have been accomplished without the individual and collective contributions of the members of the TCIC and its subcommittees. In particular, the members of the Subcommittee on Coding and Interpretation (listed below), who spent many long and sometimes frustrating hours implementing the TCIC's recommendations and OMB's final decisions, are to be congratulated for their work in preparing the text of this manual. Thanks are also extended to members of the staff of the Industry and Commodity Classification Branch, Economic Surveys Division, Bureau of the Census, who provided valuable assistance in producing the manual, especially in preparing manuscripts, integrating comments, and overseeing the proofreading. Notwithstanding all this assistance and advice, the Office of Management and Budget remains responsible for final decisions on the content of the revision.

Introduction

The Standard Industrial Classification of Establishments

Purpose and Scope of the Classification

The Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) was developed for use in the classification of establishments by type of activity in which they are engaged; for purposes of facilitating the collection, tabulation, presentation, and analysis of data relating to establishments; and for promoting uniformity and comparability in the presentation of statistical data collected by various agencies of the United States Government, State agencies, trade associations, and private research organizations. The Standard Industrial Classification for establishments differs from a classification for enterprises (companies) or products. An enterprise consists of all establishments having more than 50 percent common direct or indirect ownership. Other classifications have been developed for use in the classification of commodities or products and also for occupations.

The Standard Industrial Classification is intended to cover the entire field of economic activities: agriculture, forestry, fishing, hunting, and trapping; mining; construction; manufacturing; transportation, communications, electric, gas, and sanitary services; wholesale trade; retail trade; finance, insurance, and real estate; personal, business, professional, repair, recreation, and other services; and public administration.

This edition of the Manual supersedes the 1972/77 edition. Appendix A presents conversion tables between the 1972/77 edition and the 1987 edition.

Principles of the Classification

In reviewing the Classification, the Technical Committee on Industrial Classification was guided by the following general principles:

- (1) The Classification should conform to the existing structure of American industry.
- (2) Each establishment is to be classified according to its primary activity.
- (3) To be recognized as an industry, the group of establishments constituting the proposed classification must be statistically significant in the number of persons employed, the volume of business conducted, and other measures of economic activity.

Appendix B describes in more detail the principles and procedures used for this revision.

Structure of the Classification

The structure of the classification makes it possible to tabulate, analyze, and publish establishment data on a division, a two-digit major group, a three-digit industry group, or a four-digit industry code basis, according to the level of industrial detail considered most appropriate. An agency may use additional subdivisions within specific four-digit industries in adopting this classification for its own use, while still retaining comparability with the classifications used by other agencies.

It should be noted that the digit "9" appearing in the third- or fourth-digit position of the classification code usually designates miscellaneous three-digit industry groups or four-digit industries covering establishments not elsewhere classified. These residual classifications do not usually constitute homogeneous primary activity groups; for purposes of this classification system they are grouped together and treated as a separate industry to retain the homogeneity of the other industries in the group.

Definition of an Establishment

For purposes of this classification, an establishment is an economic unit, generally at a single physical location, where business is conducted or where services or industrial operations are performed. (For example: a factory, mill, store, hotel, movie theater, mine, farm, ranch, bank, railroad depot, airline terminal, sales office, warehouse, or central administrative office.)

Where distinct and separate economic activities are performed at a single physical location (such as construction activities operated out of the same physical location as a lumber yard), each activity should be treated as a separate establishment where: (1) no one industry description in the classification includes such combined activities; (2) the employment in each such economic activity is significant; and (3) separate reports can be prepared on the number of employees, their wages and salaries, sales or receipts, and other types of establishment data.

For activities such as construction, transportation, communications, electric, gas, and sanitary services, and similar physically dispersed operations, establishments are represented by those relatively permanent main or branch offices, terminals, stations, etc., that are either (1) directly responsible for supervising such activities, or (2) the base from which personnel operate to carry out these activities. Hence, the individual sites, projects, fields, networks, lines, or systems of such dispersed activities are not ordinarily considered to be establishments.

An establishment is not necessarily identical with the enterprise (company) which may consist of one or more establishments. Also, it is to be distinguished from subunits of the establishment such as departments. Supplemental interpretations of the definition of an establishment are included in the division, major group, industry group, and industry descriptions of the Standard Industrial Classification where appropriate. Auxiliary units, as described below, are recognized as special types of establishments.

Auxiliary Establishments

Activities

Auxiliaries are establishments primarily engaged in performing management or support services for other establishments of the same enterprise. An enterprise consists of all establishments having more than 50 percent common direct or indirect ownership. Auxiliary establishments are distinguished from operating establishments that primarily produce goods and from those that primarily provide services for personal or household use or for other enterprises. Some examples of activities commonly performed by auxiliaries are management and other general administrative functions, such as accounting, data processing, and legal services; research, development, and testing; and warehousing.

Establishment Unit

A unit that performs auxiliary functions and is located physically separate from the establishment or establishments served is treated as a separate establishment. A unit that performs auxiliary activities at the same physical location as an establishment that performs operating activities is considered a separate establishment if all of the following conditions are met:

- (1) Separate reports can be prepared on the number of employees, their wages and salaries, sales or receipts, and other types of establishment data; and
- (2) the unit serves other establishments of the same enterprise; and
- (3) employment is significant for both the auxiliary and operating activities.

Exceptions and Borderlines

Some establishments that meet the general definition of auxiliaries are nevertheless treated as operating establishments. They are listed below:

- (1) Establishments primarily engaged in producing goods or providing services for other establishments of the same enterprise when such goods or services are covered by industries in Agriculture (Major Groups 01-07 of Division A); Mining (Division B); Construction (Division C); and Manufacturing (Division D) are classified as operating establishments in such Divisions on the basis of their primary activity.
- (2) Establishments, including sales branches, sales offices, and sales representatives, primarily engaged in selling tangible products for other than personal or household consumption are classified as operating establishments in Wholesale Trade, with the exception of motion pictures and prerecorded video tapes and disks of the type produced by establishments covered in Major Group 78. Establishments primarily engaged in the wholesale distribution of motion pictures and prerecorded video tapes and disks of the type produced by establishments covered in Major Group 78 are classified in Services, Industry 7822.

- (3) Establishments primarily engaged in research, development, and testing of aircraft, guided missiles, and space vehicle units and parts, covered by Industry Groups 372 or 376, are classified as operating establishments in these manufacturing industries if they are part of an enterprise that usually manufactures such products. These establishments are often funded by government contracts rather than by funds of the enterprise. Establishments of these enterprises primarily engaged in research, development, and testing of products not covered by Industry Group 372 or 376 are classified as auxiliary establishments. Establishments primarily engaged in research, development, and testing of products for other enterprises on a contract or fee basis are classified as operating establishments in Services, Industry Group 873.
- (4) Research farms are classified as operating establishments in Agriculture, Forestry, and Fishing, Division A.
- (5) Establishments primarily engaged in long-distance trucking, stevedoring, water transportation, or pipeline transportation for other establishments of the same enterprise are classified as operating establishments in Transportation, Division E.
- (6) Establishments primarily engaged in new or replacement construction for establishments of the same enterprise covered by industries in Division E are classified as operating establishments in Construction, Division C. Establishments primarily engaged in repair and maintenance for establishments of the same enterprise covered by industries in Division E are classified as operating establishments in Division E. However, all establishments of the U.S. Postal Service are classified in Industry 4311.
- (7) In Public Administration, Division J, establishments primarily engaged in performing central administrative and managerial activities are classified as operating establishments. Establishments primarily engaged in performing other auxiliary activities for establishments in Public Administration, Division J, such as warehouses, automotive maintenance shops, and recreation facilities, are classified as auxiliary establishments.
- (8) Establishments primarily engaged in performing auxiliary activities for enterprises that do not have operating establishments in the United States are classified as operating establishments on the basis of the establishment's primary activity in the United States.

Specific Examples of Auxiliary Establishments

The following are examples of auxiliary establishments primarily engaged in performing management or support services for other establishments of the same enterprise:

- (1) Central administrative offices primarily engaged in performing management and general administrative functions, except establishments of Public Administration, Division J. Central administrative offices may perform such activities as general management; accounting; computing, tabulating, or data processing; purchasing; engineering and systems planning; advertising; public relations or lobbying; and legal, financial, or related managerial functions.

- (2) Establishments primarily engaged in research, development, and testing for other establishments of the same enterprise, except establishments of aircraft, guided missile, and spacecraft manufacturers as defined in Exceptions and Borderlines.
- (3) Warehouses and storage facilities primarily serving other establishments of the same enterprise.
- (4) Maintenance and repair shops primarily serving other establishments of the same enterprise for the maintenance and repair of its own machinery and equipment.
- (5) Automotive repair shops or storage garages operated by an enterprise primarily for repair or storage of its own vehicles.
- (6) Establishments primarily engaged in news collection, editorial work, or advertising sales related to publishing activities for other establishments of the same enterprise.
- (7) Establishments primarily providing equipment to construction establishments of the same enterprise.
- (8) Establishments primarily engaged in providing field engineering support services for other establishments of the same enterprise at locations other than the parent facility, e.g., at the customer's site.
- (9) Showrooms in which sales do not take place.
- (10) Recreation facilities, such as gymnasiums, golf courses, and swimming pools, maintained by an enterprise for the benefit of its employees.
- (11) Milk receiving stations for dairies.

Basis of Code Assignment in the SIC

Operating Establishments

Each operating establishment is assigned an industry code on the basis of its primary activity, which is determined by its principal product or group of products produced or distributed, or services rendered. Ideally, the principal product or service should be determined by its relative share of value added at the establishment. In practice, however, it is rarely possible to obtain this measure for individual products or services; typically, it is necessary to adopt some other criterion which may be expected to give approximately the same results in determining the primary activity of an establishment. It is recommended, therefore, that, when available, the following data measures be used for each of the major economic sectors in assigning industry codes:

| Division  | Data measure  |
|--|----------------------|
| Agriculture, forestry, and fishing (except agricultural services). | Value of production. |
| Mining .....   | Value of production. |

| Division   | Data measure            |
|---|--------------------------------|
| Construction .....  | Value of production.           |
| Manufacturing .....   | Value of production.           |
| Transportation, communications, electric, gas, and sanitary services. | Value of receipts or revenues. |
| Wholesale trade .....   | Value of sales.                |
| Retail trade .....  | Value of sales.                |
| Finance, insurance, and real estate .....                             | Value of receipts.             |
| Services (including agricultural services) .....                      | Value of receipts or revenues. |
| Public administration .....   | Employment or payroll.         |

Occasionally, in establishments with multiple activities, the appropriate measure cannot be determined or estimated for each product or service. In some instances, an industry classification based upon the recommended output measure will not represent adequately the relative economic importance of each of the varied activities carried on at such establishments. In such cases, employment or payroll information should be used to determine the primary activity of the establishments.

Even though a data collecting organization may have no immediate need to analyze or publish establishment data at the four-digit industry level of classification, it may be useful to assign four-digit codes to each establishment report where the information is available and the incremental cost of such classification is not excessive. The four-digit code assignment should be made directly on the basis of the primary products, services, or activities reported by each establishment at the four-digit industry level of detail.<sup>1</sup>

Four-digit code assignment is also helpful in determining comparability with codes previously assigned from earlier editions of the manual. In this revision, for example, Industry Group 504, Professional and Commercial Equipment and Supplies, was changed by shifting some four-digit industries into this industry group and others out of it. Therefore, if four-digit industry codes were assigned previously, reclassification would not be necessary to provide comparable historical data for that industry group on the revised basis. Before an agency limits classification to less than the four-digit industry detail, consideration should also be given to possible expansion of the requirements for industry data, as well as for editing and special analyses of certain data series for which more detail would be helpful.

Auxiliary Establishments

Auxiliary establishments are assigned four-digit industry codes on the basis of the primary activity of the operating establishments they serve. In addition, they are subclassified further through the assignment of a one-digit auxiliary code, outlined below, based on the primary activity performed by the auxiliary establishment.

<sup>1</sup> It is possible for the classification of an establishment, based on its primary activity at the two-digit major group or three-digit industry group level, to differ from that assigned on the basis of its primary activity at the four-digit industry level. This can occur where the primary activity of an establishment is classified in the four-digit industry of one industry group that is not as large as the combined activity of two or more four-digit industries within another industry group. (Note, however, that if subindustries are used, the code assignment should be made on the basis of the primary activity within the assigned four-digit industry.)

Agencies should provide for the separate presentation of statistics on an industry basis for operating and auxiliary establishments when data for both types of establishments are presented.

Industrial Subclassification of Auxiliary Establishments

| AuxiliaryCode Number | Titles and Descriptions of Auxiliaries  |                                   |

|                          | Auxiliary establishments primarily engaged in performing management and other general administrative functions centrally for other establishments of the same enterprise.               |                                   |
|                          | Accounting offices  | Financial offices                 |

Treatment of Ownership Characteristics

All establishments primarily engaged in the same kind of economic activity are classified in the same four-digit industry, regardless of their types of ownership; hence, their owners may include such diverse legal organizations as corporations, partnerships, sole proprietorships, government agencies, etc.

Government establishments, therefore, are classified by their primary economic activity, rather than by type of owner.

Where applicable, agencies should publish at least summary data separately for the private and government establishments constituting an industry or industry group.

If available, these two major ownership sectors may be further subdivided by the following classification system:

Sector I. Private

Corporation

Profit

Nonprofit (except cooperatives)

Cooperative or mutual association (incorporated or not)

Profit

Nonprofit

Partnership

Sole proprietorship

Other—estate, receivership, joint venture, personal trust, fiduciary trust, etc.

Sector II. Government

Federal

Regular government

Quasi-government*

State

Regular government

Quasi-government*

Local

Regular government

County

City, town, village, or township

School districts

Special districts

Quasi-government*

International government or foreign government

Other—regional commissions, inter-State organizations, etc.

*Quasi-government includes those establishments which are controlled by the government and private sectors through joint ownership of stock or joint membership on boards of directors or other controlling bodies.

DIVISION A

Agriculture, Forestry, and Fishing

The Division as a Whole

This division includes establishments primarily engaged in agricultural production, forestry, commercial fishing, hunting and trapping, and related services.

The classification of agricultural production covers establishments (e.g., farms, ranches, dairies, greenhouses, nurseries, orchards, hatcheries) primarily engaged in the production of crops, plants, vines, or trees (excluding forestry operations); and the keeping, grazing, or feeding of livestock for the sale of livestock or livestock products (including serums), for livestock increase, or for value increase. Livestock as used here includes cattle, sheep, goats, hogs, and poultry. Also included are animal specialties, such as horses, rabbits, bees, pets, fur-bearing animals in captivity, and fish in captivity. Agricultural production also includes establishments primarily engaged in the operation of sod farms, cranberry bogs, and poultry hatcheries; in the production of mushrooms, bulbs, flower seeds, and vegetable seeds; and in the growing of hydroponic crops.

Farms are the establishment units generally utilized for the purpose of industrial classification of agricultural production. A farm may consist of a single tract of land or a number of separate tracts which may be held under different tenures. For example, one tract may be owned by the farm operator and another rented. It may be operated by the operator alone or with the assistance of members of the household or hired employees, or it may be operated by a partnership, corporation, or other type of organization. When a landowner has one or more tenants, renters, croppers, or managers, the land operated by each is considered a farm.

The classification of agricultural services includes establishments primarily engaged in supplying soil preparation services, crop services, landscape and horticultural services, veterinary and other animal services, and farm labor and management services.

The classification of forestry covers establishments primarily engaged in the operation of timber tracts, tree farms, or forest nurseries; in the gathering of forest products; or in performing forestry services. Logging establishments are classified in Manufacturing, Industry 2411.

The classification of fishing and hunting and trapping covers establishments primarily engaged in commercial fishing (including shellfish and marine products); in operating fish hatcheries and fish and game preserves; and in commercial hunting and trapping.

Establishments which produce agricultural commodities and sell them directly to the general public for personal or household consumption are classified in Major Groups 01 and 02.

Major Group 01.—AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION—CROPS

The Major Group as a Whole

This major group includes establishments (e.g., farms, orchards, greenhouses, nurseries) primarily engaged in the production of crops, plants, vines, and trees (excluding forestry operations). This major group also includes establishments primarily engaged in the operation of sod farms, and cranberry bogs; in the production of mushrooms, bulbs, flower seeds, and vegetable seeds; and in the growing of hydroponic crops. Seeds of field crops are classified in the same industry as crops grown for other purposes.

An establishment primarily engaged in crop production (Major Group 01) is classified in the industry (four-digit) and industry group (three-digit) which accounts for 50 percent or more of the total value of sales for its agricultural production. If the total value of sales for agricultural products of an establishment is less than 50 percent from a single four-digit industry, but 50 percent or more of the value of sales for its agricultural products derives from the products of two or more four-digit industries within the same three-digit industry group, the establishment is classified in the miscellaneous industry of that industry group; otherwise, it is classified as a general crop farm in Industry 0191. Establishments that derive 50 percent or more of the value of sales from horticultural specialties of Industry Group 018 are classified in Industry 0181 or 0182 according to their primary activity.

Major Group 02.—AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION—LIVESTOCK AND ANIMAL SPECIALTIES

The Major Group as a Whole

This major group includes establishments (e.g., farms, ranches, dairies, feedlots, egg production facilities, broiler facilities, poultry hatcheries, apiaries) primarily engaged in the keeping, grazing, or feeding of livestock for the sale of livestock or livestock products (including serums), for livestock increase, or for value increase. Livestock, as used here, includes cattle, hogs, sheep, goats, and poultry of all kinds; also included in this major group are animal specialties, such as horses, rabbits, bees, pets, fish in captivity, and fur-bearing animals in captivity.

An establishment primarily engaged in the production of livestock or livestock products (Major Group 02) is classified in the industry (four-digit) or industry group (three-digit) which accounts for 50 percent or more of the total value of sales for its agricultural production. If the total value of sales for agricultural products of an establishment is less than 50 percent from a single four-digit industry, but 50 percent or more of the value of sales for its agricultural products derives from the products of two or more four-digit industries within the same three-digit industry group, the establishment is classified in the miscellaneous industry of that industry group; otherwise, it is classified as a general livestock farm in Industry 0291.

DIVISION B

Mining

The Division as a Whole

This division includes all establishments primarily engaged in mining. The term mining is used in the broad sense to include the extraction of minerals occurring naturally: solids, such as coal and ores; liquids, such as crude petroleum; and gases such as natural gas. The term mining is also used in the broad sense to include quarrying, well operations, milling (e.g., crushing, screening, washing, flotation), and other preparation customarily done at the mine site, or as a part of mining activity.

Exploration and development of mineral properties are included. Services performed on a contract or fee basis in the development or operation of mineral properties are classified separately but within this division. Establishments which have complete responsibility for operating mines, quarries, or oil and gas wells for others on a contract or fee basis are classified according to the product mined rather than as mineral services.

Mining operations are classified, by industry, on the basis of the principal mineral produced, or, if there is no production, on the basis of the principal mineral for which exploration or development work is in process. The mining of culm banks, ore dumps, and tailing piles is classified as mining according to the principal mineral product derived.

The purification and distribution of water is classified in Transportation and Public Utilities, Industry 4941, and the bottling and distribution of natural spring and mineral waters is classified in Wholesale Trade, Industry 5149.

Crushing, grinding, or otherwise preparing clay, ceramic, and refractory minerals; barite; and miscellaneous nonmetallic minerals, except fuels, not in conjunction with mining or quarrying operations, are classified in Manufacturing, Industry 3295. Dressing of stone or slabs is classified in Manufacturing, Industry 3281, whether or not mining is done at the same establishment.

Major Group 10.—METAL MINING

The Major Group as a Whole

This major group includes establishments primarily engaged in mining, developing mines, or exploring for metallic minerals (ores). These ores are valued chiefly for the metals contained, to be recovered for use as such or as constituents of alloys, chemicals, pigments or other products. This major group also includes all ore dressing and beneficiating operations, whether performed at mills operated in conjunction with the mines served or at mills, such as custom mills, operated separately. These include mills which crush, grind, wash, dry, sinter, calcine, or leach ore, or perform gravity separation or flotation operations. Magnesite and brucite operations are classified in Industry 1459, and crushed dolomite operations are classified in Industry 1422. Smelters and refineries are classified in Manufacturing, Major Group 33, and establishments engaged in producing primary magnesium metal are classified in Manufacturing, Industry 3339. The operation of brine wells or sea water plants for the production of magnesium is classified in Manufacturing, Major Group 28.

When performed by operators of the properties, exploration under preliminary phases of operation should be classified according to the type of ore expected to be found. Exploration performed on a contract or fee basis is classified in Industry 1081.

DIVISION C

Construction

The Division as a Whole

This division includes establishments primarily engaged in construction. The term construction includes new work, additions, alterations, reconstruction, installations, and repairs. Construction activities are generally administered or managed from a relatively fixed place of business, but the actual construction work is performed at one or more different sites. If a company has more than one relatively fixed place of business from which it undertakes or manages construction activities and for which separate data on the number of employees, payroll, receipts, and other establishment-type records are maintained, each such place of business is considered a separate construction establishment.

Three broad types of construction activity are covered: (1) building construction by general contractors or by operative builders; (2) heavy construction other than building by general contractors and special trade contractors; and (3) construction activity by other special trade contractors. Special trade contractors are primarily engaged in specialized construction activities, such as plumbing, painting, and electrical work, and work for general contractors under subcontract or directly for property owners. General contractors usually assume responsibility for an entire construction project, but may subcontract to others all of the actual construction work or those portions of the project that require special skills or equipment. General contractors thus may or may not have construction workers on their payroll.

Building construction general contractors are primarily engaged in the construction of dwellings, office buildings, stores, farm buildings, and other building construction projects. Operative builders who build on their own account for resale are also included in this division. However, investment builders who build structures on their own account for rental are classified in Real Estate, Major Group 65, but separate establishments primarily engaged in construction for the investment builder are classified in this division.

General contractors and special trade contractors for heavy construction other than building are primarily engaged in the construction of highways; pipelines, communications and power lines, and sewer and water mains; and other heavy construction projects. Special trade contractors are classified in heavy construction other than building if they are primarily engaged in activities such as grading for highway and airport runways; guardrail construction; installation of highway signs; asphalt and concrete construction of roads, highways, streets and public sidewalks; trenching; cable laying; conduit construction; underwater rock removal; pipeline wrapping; or land clearing and leveling.

Other special trade contractors undertake activities of a type that are either specialized to building construction or may be undertaken for building or nonbuilding projects. These activities include painting (including bridge painting and traffic lane painting) and electrical work (including work on bridges, power lines and power plants).

Establishments primarily engaged in managing construction projects for others on a contract or fee basis, but assuming no responsibility for completion of the construction project, are classified in Services, Industry 8741. Establishments primarily engaged in renting construction equipment, with or without an operator, are classified in Services, Industry Group 735.

Force account construction is construction work performed by an establishment primarily engaged in some business other than construction, for its own account and use, and by employees of the establishment. This activity is not included in this division, but is classified according to the primary activity which is or will be performed in the establishment. However, construction work performed as the primary activity of a separate establishment of an enterprise for the enterprise's own account is included in this division.

The installation of prefabricated building equipment and materials by general and special trade contractors is classified in this division. Similar installation work performed as a service incidental to sale by employees of an establishment manufacturing or selling prefabricated equipment and materials is classified according to the primary activity in the Manufacturing or Trade Divisions.

Establishments primarily engaged in the distribution and construction or installation of equipment often present classification problems. Since value added is not available for distinguishing the relative importance of sales versus installation or construction activities, payroll or employment may be used as measures yielding approximately the same results.

On this basis, separate establishments primarily engaged in the sale and installation of the following illustrative types of structures or integral parts of structures, generally site assembled, are classified in construction rather than in trade:

- a. Steel work on bridges or buildings;
- b. Elevators and escalators;
- c. Sprinkler systems;
- d. Central air-conditioning and heating equipment;

DIVISION D

Manufacturing

The Division as a Whole

The manufacturing division includes establishments engaged in the mechanical or chemical transformation of materials or substances into new products. These establishments are usually described as plants, factories, or mills and characteristically use power driven machines and materials handling equipment. Establishments engaged in assembling component parts of manufactured products are also considered manufacturing if the new product is neither a structure nor other fixed improvement. Also included is the blending of materials, such as lubricating oils, plastics resins, or liquors.

The materials processed by manufacturing establishments include products of agriculture, forestry, fishing, mining, and quarrying as well as products of other manufacturing establishments. The new product of a manufacturing establishment may be finished in the sense that it is ready for utilization or consumption, or it may be semifinished to become a raw material for an establishment engaged in further manufacturing. For example, the product of the copper smelter is the raw material used in electrolytic refineries; refined copper is the raw material used by copper wire mills; and copper wire is the raw material used by certain electrical equipment manufacturers.

The materials used by manufacturing establishments may be purchased directly from producers, obtained through customary trade channels, or secured without recourse to the market by transferring the product from one establishment to another which is under the same ownership. Manufacturing production is usually carried on for the wholesale market, for interplant transfer, or to order for industrial users, rather than for direct sale to the domestic consumer.

There are numerous borderline cases between manufacturing and other divisions of the classification system. Specific instances will be found in the descriptions of the individual industries. The following activities, although not always considered as manufacturing, are so classified:

Milk bottling and pasteurizing;
Fresh fish packaging (oyster shucking, fish filleting);
Apparel jobbing (assigning of materials to contract factories or shops for fabrication or other contract operations) as well as contracting on materials owned by others;

Publishing;
Ready-mixed concrete production;
Leather converting;
Logging;
Wood preserving;
Various service industries to the manufacturing trade, such as typesetting, engraving, plate printing, and preparing electrotyping and stereotype plates, but not blue-printing or photocopying services; Electroplating, plating, metal heat treating, and polishing for the trade;

Lapidary work for the trade; Fabricating of signs and advertising displays.

There are also some manufacturing-type activities performed by establishments which are primarily engaged in activities covered by other divisions, and are, thus, not classified as manufacturing. A few of the more important examples are:

Agriculture, Forestry, and Fishing

Processing on farms is not considered manufacturing if the raw materials are grown on the farm and if the manufacturing activities are on a small scale without the extensive use of paid labor. Other exclusions are threshing and cotton ginning.

Mining

The dressing and beneficiating of ores; the breaking, washing, and grading of coal; the crushing and breaking of stone; and the crushing, grinding, or otherwise preparing of sand, gravel, and nonmetallic chemical and fertilizer minerals other than barite are classified in Mining.

Construction

Fabricating operations performed at the site of construction by contractors are not considered manufacturing, but the prefabrication of sheet metal, concrete, and terrazzo products and similar construction materials is included in the Manufacturing Division.

Wholesale and Retail Trade

Establishments engaged in the following types of operations are included in Wholesale or Retail Trade: cutting and selling purchased carcasses; preparing feed at grain elevators and farm supply stores; stemming leaf tobacco at wholesale establishments; and production of wiping rags. The breaking of bulk and redistribution in smaller lots, including packaging, repackaging, or bottling products, such as liquors or chemicals, is also classified as Wholesale or Retail Trade. Also included in Retail Trade are establishments primarily engaged in selling, to the general public, products produced on the same premises from which they are sold, such as bakeries, candy stores, ice cream parlors, and custom tailors.

Services

Tire retreading and rebuilding, sign painting and lettering shops, computer software production, and the production of motion picture films (including video tapes) are classified in Services. Most repair activities are classified as Services. However, some repair activity such as shipbuilding and boatbuilding and repair, the rebuilding of machinery and equipment on a factory basis, and machine shop repair are classified as manufacturing.

ABBREVIATIONS USED FOR INDEX ITEMS

mach.—machinery

mfpm—made from purchased materials or materials transferred from another establishment.

mitse—made in the same establishment as the basic materials.

Major Group 20.—FOOD AND KINDRED PRODUCTS

The Major Group as a Whole

This major group includes establishments manufacturing or processing foods and beverages for human consumption, and certain related products, such as manufactured ice, chewing gum, vegetable and animal fats and oils, and prepared feeds for animals and fowls. Products described as dietetic are classified in the same manner as nondietetic products (e.g., as candy, canned fruits, cookies). Chemical sweeteners are classified in Major Group 28.

Major Group 22.—TEXTILE MILL PRODUCTS

The Major Group as a Whole

This major group includes establishments engaged in performing any of the following operations: (1) preparation of fiber and subsequent manufacturing of yarn, thread, braids, twine, and cordage; (2) manufacturing broadwoven fabrics, narrow woven fabrics, knit fabrics, and carpets and rugs from yarn; (3) dyeing and finishing fiber, yarn, fabrics, and knit apparel; (4) coating, waterproofing, or otherwise treating fabrics; (5) the integrated manufacture of knit apparel and other finished articles from yarn; and (6) the manufacture of felt goods, lace goods, nonwoven fabrics, and miscellaneous textiles.

This classification makes no distinction between the two types of organizations which operate in the textile industry: (1) the integrated mill which purchases materials, produces textiles and related articles within the establishment, and sells the finished products; and (2) the contract or commission mill which processes materials owned by others. Converters or other nonmanufacturing establishments which assign materials to contract mills for processing, other than knitting, are classified in nonmanufacturing industries; establishments which assign yarns to outside contractors or commission knitters for the production of knit products are classified in Industry Group 225.

Major Group 23.—APPAREL AND OTHER FINISHED PRODUCTS MADE FROM FABRICS AND SIMILAR MATERIALS

The Major Group as a Whole

This major group, known as the cutting-up and needle trades, includes establishments producing clothing and fabricating products by cutting and sewing purchased woven or knit textile fabrics and related materials, such as leather, rubberized fabrics, plastics, and furs. Also included are establishments that manufacture clothing by cutting and joining (for example, by adhesives) materials such as paper and nonwoven textiles. Included in the apparel industries are three types of establishments: (1) the regular or inside factories; (2) contract factories; and (3) apparel jobbers. The regular factories perform all of the usual manufacturing functions within their own plant; the contract factories manufacture apparel from materials owned by others; and apparel jobbers perform the entrepreneurial functions of a manufacturing company, such as buying raw materials, designing and preparing samples, arranging for the manufacture of clothing from their materials, and selling of the finished apparel.

Knitting mills are classified in Industry 2253 if primarily knitting outerwear, and in Industry 2254 if primarily knitting underwear and nightwear. Custom tailors and dressmakers not operating on a factory basis are classified in Retail Trade, Industry 5699; and establishments which purchase and resell finished garments but do not perform the functions of the apparel jobbers are classified in Wholesale Trade, Industry Group 513.

DIVISION E

Transportation, Communications, Electric, Gas, and Sanitary Services

The Division as a Whole

This division includes establishments providing, to the general public or to other business enterprises, passenger and freight transportation, communications services, or electricity, gas, steam, water or sanitary services, and all establishments of the United States Postal Service.

For many of the industries in this division, the establishments have activities, workers, and physical facilities distributed over an extensive geographic area. For this division, the establishment is represented by a relatively permanent office, shop, station, terminal, or warehouse, etc. that is either (1) directly responsible for supervising such activities or (2) the base from which personnel operate to carry out these activities.

Many of the industries are engaged in various related activities. For example, establishments of communications, pipeline, and utility enterprises include a variety of activities, such as power generation, pumping, transmission, and distribution. Establishments primarily engaged in such activities are all classified in this division. Establishments primarily engaged in new or replacement construction for establishments of these types of enterprises are classified as operating establishments in Division C, Construction. Locations engaged in activities such as sales of electric appliances to household consumers are classified in Division G, Retail Trade.

The establishments classified in this division furnish services to the general public or to other business enterprises; establishments which furnish similar services only to other establishments of the same enterprise are classified as auxiliary to the establishments or units of the enterprise which they serve. However, separate establishments primarily engaged in long-distance trucking, stevedoring, water transportation, or pipeline transportation are classified according to their activity and not as auxiliaries, even though they serve only establishments of the same enterprise.

DIVISION F

Wholesale Trade

The Division as a Whole

This division includes establishments or places of business primarily engaged in selling merchandise to retailers; to industrial, commercial, institutional, farm, construction contractors, or professional business users; or to other wholesalers; or acting as agents or brokers in buying merchandise for or selling merchandise to such persons or companies.

The chief functions of establishments included in Wholesale Trade are selling goods to trading establishments, or to industrial, commercial, institutional, farm, construction contractors, or professional business users; and bringing buyer and seller together. In addition to selling, functions frequently performed by wholesale establishments include maintaining inventories of goods; extending credit; physically assembling, sorting, and grading goods in large lots; breaking bulk and redistribution in smaller lots; delivery; refrigeration; and various types of promotion such as advertising and label designing.

The principal types of establishments included are: (1) merchant wholesalers—wholesalers who take title to the goods they sell, such as wholesale merchants or jobbers, industrial distributors, voluntary group wholesalers, exporters, importers, cash-and-carry wholesalers, drop shippers, truck distributors, retailer cooperative warehouses, terminal elevators, cooperative buying associations, and assemblers, buyers or cooperatives engaged in the marketing of farm products; (2) sales branches and sales offices (but not retail stores) maintained by manufacturing, refining or mining enterprises apart from their plants or mines for the purpose of marketing their products; and (3) agents, merchandise or commodity brokers, and commission merchants.

Establishments primarily engaged in selling merchandise to construction contractors, institutions, industrial users, or businesses are included in Wholesale Trade with a few exceptions. These exceptions are made necessary because of sales to both the general public for personal or household consumption and to businesses, industrial users, or construction contractors. These exceptions are lumber yards; paint, glass, and wallpaper stores; typewriter stores; stationery stores; and gasoline service stations which are classified in Retail Trade, Division G.

However, establishments that sell similar products only to institutions, industrial users, and establishments that sell merchandise for use exclusively by business establishments or to other wholesalers are classified in Wholesale Trade. Establishments primarily engaged in selling such merchandise as plumbing equipment; electrical supplies; used automobile parts; and office furniture are classified in Wholesale Trade, even if a higher proportion of their sales is made to individuals for household use. Establishments primarily engaged in the wholesale distribution of used products are classified on the basis of the products sold.

Guidelines for the classification of establishments primarily engaged in the wholesale distribution and construction or installation of equipment manufactured by other establishments are outlined in the Introduction to Division C, Construction.

DIVISION G

Retail Trade

The Division as a Whole

This division includes establishments engaged in selling merchandise for personal or household consumption and rendering services incidental to the sale of the goods. In general, retail establishments are classified by kind of business according to the principal lines of commodities sold (groceries, hardware, etc.), or the usual trade designation (drug store, cigar store, etc.). Some of the important characteristics of retail trade establishments are: the establishment is usually a place of business and is engaged in activities to attract the general public to buy; the establishment buys or receives merchandise as well as sells; the establishment may process its products, but such processing is incidental or subordinate to selling; the establishment is considered as retail in the trade; and the establishment sells to customers for personal or household use. Not all of these characteristics need be present and some are modified by trade practice.

For the most part, establishments engaged in retail trade sell merchandise to the general public for personal or household consumption. Exceptions to this general rule are lumber yards; paint, glass, and wallpaper stores; typewriter stores; stationery stores; and gasoline service stations which sell to both the general public for personal or household consumption and to businesses. These types of stores are classified in Retail Trade even if a higher proportion of their sales is made to other than individuals for personal or household consumption.

However, establishments that sell these products only to institutional or industrial users and to other wholesalers and establishments that sell similar merchandise for use exclusively by business establishments are classified in Wholesale Trade.

Establishments primarily engaged in selling such merchandise as plumbing equipment; electrical supplies; used automobile parts; and office furniture are classified in Wholesale Trade, even if a higher proportion of their sales is made to individuals for personal or household consumption.

Buying of goods for resale to the consumer is a characteristic of retail trade establishments that particularly distinguishes them from the agricultural and extractive industries. For example, farmers who sell only their own produce at or from the point of production are not classified as retailers.

Processing incidental or subordinate to selling often is conducted at retail stores. For example, restaurants prepare meals, and meat markets cut meat. Separate establishments selling merchandise for personal or household consumption which has been manufactured by other establishments of the same company are classified in Retail Trade.

Chain store warehouses are considered auxiliary to the retail establishment served and are classified on the basis of the activity carried on by such retail stores.

Establishments primarily engaged in the retail sale of used motor vehicles, trailers, and boats are classified in Major Group 55; those selling used mobile homes are classified in Industry 5271; those selling used automobile parts are classified in Wholesale Trade, Industry 5015; and those selling all other used merchandise are classified in Industry Group 593. Establishments primarily engaged in nonstore retailing are classified in Industry Group 596.

These establishments are known as retail in the trade. Establishments primarily selling these products for use exclusively by businesses or to other wholesalers are classified in Wholesale Trade.

Establishments primarily selling plumbing, heating, and air-conditioning equipment and electrical supplies are classified in Wholesale Trade.

Numerical List of Short Titles

Numerical List of Short Titles

The official SIC titles of the divisions and the two-digit major groups, three-digit industry groups, and four-digit industries are those shown in Part I. For various reasons, including presentation of statistical tables, it is desirable to have a standard list of short SIC titles so that all agencies may use the same short titles for the same codes as long as the titles fit the space requirements of the publication.

The standard short titles below have been limited to 36 spaces for four-digit industry codes and 38 spaces for two-digit major group and three-digit industry group codes. Where a two-digit major group or three-digit industry group contains only a single four-digit industry, the two-digit or three-digit titles are allowed 36 rather than 38 spaces. If the official SIC title falls within the short title space limitation above, it is generally used without change.

It is understood, of course, that just as a title itself is not sufficient to define an industry, so too a short title may not appear to represent the same content as the official title. Content can only be defined by reference to the official titles and descriptions for the relevant division, major group, industry group, and industry.

Principles and Procedures for the Review of the SIC

A. Introduction

The Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) is a system for classifying establishments by type of economic activity. Its purposes are: (1) to facilitate the collection, tabulation, presentation, and analysis of data relating to establishments, and (2) to promote uniformity and comparability in the presentation of statistical data describing the economy. The SIC is used by agencies of the United States Government that collect or publish data by industry. It is also widely used by State agencies, trade associations, private businesses, and other organizations.

The SIC system is designed for statistical purposes. Although the classification is also used for various administrative purposes, the requirements of government agencies that use it for nonstatistical purposes play no role in development and revision of the SIC.

B. Principles of Classification

Following are the basic principles underlying the SIC classification (described more fully in the SIC Manual):

(1) The classification is organized to reflect the structure of the U.S. economy. It does not follow any single principle, such as end use, nature of raw materials, product, or market structure.

(2) The unit classified is the establishment. An establishment is an economic unit that produces goods or services—for example, a farm, mine, factory, or store. In most instances, the establishment is at a single physical location and is engaged in one, or predominantly one, type of economic activity. An establishment is not necessarily identical with a company or enterprise.

(3) Each establishment is classified according to its primary activity. Primary activity is determined by identifying the predominant product or group of products produced or handled, or service rendered.

(4) An industry (four-digit SIC) consists of a group of establishments primarily engaged in the same activity. To be recognized as an industry, such a group of establishments must meet certain criteria of economic significance, as described in Section D.

C. Purpose and Scope of Review

The SIC is reviewed and revised periodically to reflect the changing structure of the U.S. economy. Revisions take into account the technological change and economic growth and decline of individual industries. They may include changes in industry detail or coverage, improvements to industry definitions, or the clarification of the classification of individual activities.

Review and revision of the SIC are the responsibility of the Office of Management and Budget, which has developed these principles and procedures with the assistance of the Technical Committee on Industrial Classification. Committee members include the following agencies: Office of Management and Budget (Chair), Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Bureau of Economic Analysis, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Bureau of Mines, Bureau of the Census, Department of Transportation, Economic Research Service (USDA), Federal Emergency Management Agency, Federal Trade Commission, Internal Revenue Service, International Trade Administration, Interstate Commerce Commission, National Center for Health Statistics, National Science Foundation, Small Business Administration, Social Security Administration, and U.S. International Trade Commission.

Proposals for revision are accepted from Federal agencies and the public and are reviewed by the Technical Committee on Industrial Classification. Final decisions on revisions will be made by the Office of Management and Budget based on the recommendations of the Technical Committee.

Persons considering submitting proposals should note that it is not always necessary to revise the SIC to obtain more detailed statistical information. If statistical information is needed for specific products rather than establishments, it may be more appropriate to seek changes in the level of detail of data collected and published by individual Government agencies than to change the SIC.

D. Guidelines for Reviewing Proposed Changes in the Classification

Proposals for revisions to the SIC will be reviewed based on the following considerations:

(1) Structure of the Classification.—The overall structure is a general-purpose framework which can have its four-digit detail rearranged for various analytical purposes. Proposed changes should be designed to fit within this structure with minimum disruption to the existing configuration.

For example, a change which consists of breaking one four-digit industry into two or more within the same three-digit industry group is easier and less expensive than a change which affects three-digit groups, particularly if this in turn affects the two-digit or divisional groupings. Changes to the basic two- or three-digit structure require exceptionally strong justification showing that they reflect changes in the economy and not simply a different view of what the basic structure should be.

(2) Historical Continuity.—Maintaining the continuity of major Federal statistical series will be an important consideration in evaluating proposed changes in the SIC. Changes that result in weakening principal economic indicators or that necessitate costly backward revision of time series will require very strong justification on other grounds to be acceptable.

(3) Economic Significance.—To be recognized as an industry, a group of establishments must have economic significance measured in terms of numbers of establishments, employment, payroll, value added, and volume of business (value of shipments or receipts). The following scoring system is used to evaluate economic significance for SIC purposes:

Values for the “average” industry are calculated by division (manufacturing, construction, retail trade, etc.) for each of the five factors. These values are used in evaluating the economic significance of a proposed SIC industry by comparing the division averages to the values for the proposed industry, as illustrated below. For each factor, a proposed industry is assigned points. The number of points is equal to the value of the factors for a proposed industry as a percentage of the value for the division average.

The number of employees and value added are considered more significant and reliable measures of industry importance and are therefore given double weight when calculating the final score. The table below presents calculations (based on 1977 data) for a proposed potato chip and similar snack industry in Division D (manufacturing). The final score for this industry is 59 (column E total divided by column D total).

| Data Items                           | Proposed industry | Average industry | Number of points (A as percent of B) | Weights | Weighted points (C × D) |
| Number of establishments .....       | 230               | 796              | 29                                   | 1       | 29                      |
| Number of employees (thousands)..... | 26.7              | 43.0             | 62                                   | 2       | 124                     |
| Payroll (million dollars).....       | 301.3             | 584.0            | 52                                   | 1       | 52                      |
| Value added (million dollars) .....  | 934.5             | 1,295.0          | 72                                   | 2       | 144                     |
| Shipments (million dollars).....     | 1,929.0           | 3,006.0          | 64                                   | 1       | 64                      |

In general, a score of at least 20 is needed to warrant recognition as a new SIC industry. However, an existing SIC industry will be retained if it has a score of at least 10.

The 1987 review will be based on the most recent data available. In cases where data are not available for all five factors, scores will be weighted averages of those factors for which data are available.

(4) Specialization and Coverage.—For an industry to properly reflect the activity being measured, the output of the industry should: (1) Consist mainly of the goods or services defining the industry, and (2) account for the bulk of the specified goods and services provided by all establishments. For manufacturing industries, these factors are measured by the primary product specialization ratio and the coverage ratio.

The primary product specialization ratio indicates how much the establishments in a given industry concentrate on the activities that define the industry. This ratio is calculated by dividing the value of the primary product shipments of the establishments classified in the industry by the value of all shipments (both primary and secondary) for the same establishments.

The coverage ratio indicates the volume of shipments of products which define the industry that are accounted for by establishments classified in the industry. The coverage ratio is the proportion of products defining the industry shipped by establishments classified in the industry to total shipments of these products by all manufacturing establishments.

For example, establishments classified in 1977 as primarily producing transformers (SIC 3612) had shipments of $2,051.1 million for transformers, total shipments for all products of $2,160.6 million, and a resulting specialization ratio of 95. Total shipments of transformers by all industries were $2,117.8 million, yielding a coverage ratio of 97.

A four-digit SIC industry should have a minimum primary product specialization ratio of 80. The minimum for the coverage ratio is generally 70 for establishments producing for commercial sale. This may be reduced somewhat for industries having significant interplant transfers or production for use within the same establishment (e.g., Gray Iron Foundries, Iron and Steel Forgings) or for industries producing the same final product as another industry but made from materials that are at a more advanced stage of manufacture (e.g., Blended and Prepared Flour). Where existing industries have relatively few large plants producing a wide range of products, the coverage ratio criterion often precludes the establishment of further industry detail.

(5) Other Statistical Considerations.—In general, proposed new industries should meet each of the criteria of economic significance, specialization, and coverage. However, industries that substantially exceed one or two of the criteria and fall slightly short on the others also may be accepted in some cases.

For example, industries which are not yet large enough, but are growing rapidly, may be accepted based on current size and evidence of growth by a specified time. Proposed industries which meet the criteria only marginally should also show substantial current growth and likelihood of future growth.

Special consideration will be given to new industries and industry changes that increase comparability of the SIC with the United Nation's International Standard Industrial Classification and that increase the capability for assessing the impact of international trade on domestic industries such as increasing possibilities for comparability with the Customs Cooperation Council's Harmonized System.

Proposed new industries will be evaluated to make sure they provide for relatively stable classification of individual establishments. In some fields of activity, it is normal for the primary activity, if defined restrictively, to fluctuate from year to year. For example, shipbuilding establishments may work on defense contracts one year and on civilian contracts the next; or establishments may perform primarily new work one year and rebuilding another. Separate industries will not be created where the distinction would result in industry shifts for establishments that are still engaged in similar industrial activity.

In some cases, a proposed industry may meet all previously stated criteria but be rejected because the remaining part of the existing industry is too small for separate industry status and cannot logically be merged into other industries.

(6) Administrative Considerations.—Cost to the Government, as well as cost and burden to businesses that furnish data to the Government, will be major considerations in evaluating proposed changes in the SIC. Revisions that involve major changes in record-keeping by business or in government agencies' procedures, records, and data series will require very strong justification to be considered.

The ability of government agencies to classify, collect, and publish data on the proposed basis will also be taken into account. Proposed changes must be such that they can be applied by agencies within their normal processing operations.

Proposed industries must also include a sufficient number of companies so that industry data can be published without disclosing information about the operations of individual firms.
