Deirdre Des Jardins, Principal at California Water Research ("California Water Research"), hereby provides the following arguments in support of NRDC’s cross-examination exhibits testing WaterFix project assumptions.

1. DWR’s Lack of Written Commitment to Part 3
2. Reclamation’s Participation Has Clearly Changed
3. NRDC’S Cross Examination on Project Assumptions
4. Due Process Rights to Cross-Examination and Impeachment of Witnesses

As argued on points and authorities below, NRDC’s exhibits should be admitted. Due process under the California and federal Constitution also requires that the Hearing Officers allow full cross-examination of DWR’s witnesses on WaterFix project assumptions.
1. DWR’s Lack of Written Commitment to Part 3

There appears to be a fundamental misunderstanding in the February 21, 2018 Hearing ruling regarding the commitment by the California Department of Water Resources (“DWR”) to the Hearing Officers’ proposal for a Part 3 of the Hearing. The Hearing Ruling stated,

DWR has already committed in its written submittals to do the following if and when Petitioners decide to exercise the option of proceeding with staged implementation of the WaterFix Project: (1) inform us and the other parties; (2) introduce the EIR supplement and testimony that addresses whether it is necessary to revisit Part 1 or Part 2 hearing issues in light of the staged implementation; and (3) make its witnesses available for cross-examination by the parties. (Id. at p. 3-4.)

However, DWR’s February 9, 2018 response to the Hearing Officers’ questions did not commit to introducing the Supplemental EIR in this proceeding. Instead, DWR’s response refers to obtaining the change permit before finishing the Supplemental EIR:

…should DWR move forward with that option upon obtaining a change to its permit, they are commencing the planning work now to anticipate the inevitable (albeit meritless) claims that any staged implementation is not within the scope of the certified EIR or any regulatory permits, including the permit sought in this hearing. (Id. at p. 3:9-12.)

DWR’s response also states

If it becomes more certain that construction will be staged and any party feels the need to contest that point or argue for modification of these proceedings, they can attempt to do so. (Id at p. 3:17-19.)

There is thus a fundamental flaw with the February 21, 2018 Hearing ruling that cross-examination or rebuttal based on changes to a staged implementation will take place in Part 3 of the Hearing. As argued below, the Hearing Officers must allow cross-examination on the assumptions in the Final EIR/EIS and the CWF H3+ operational scenario submitted as evidence in Part 2. ¹

¹ California Water Research does not waive other arguments asserted in California Water Research’s February 21, 2018 filing by this submission.
2. Reclamation’s Participation Has Clearly Changed

   The Department of Water Resources moved that the Hearing Officers start Part 2 of the Hearing without a Record of Decision on August 3, 2017, stating in part “there is no definitive schedule for issuance of the Record of Decision.” (p. 1.) The Board of Westlands Water District, the largest South of Delta CVP contractor, voted not to participate in the WaterFix project on September 19, 2017. This clearly and substantially affected Reclamation’s participation in the project, and there is no indication that Reclamation will ever issue a Record of Decision adopting the operations proposed in the WaterFix Final EIR/EIS. DWR’s witnesses are nevertheless testifying about the initial operational scenario analyzed in the WaterFix Final EIR/EIS, which assumes full buildout at 2030, and full participation by Reclamation.

3. NRDC’S Cross Examination on Project Assumptions

   The Natural Resources Defense Council (“NRDC”) introduced on cross-examination exhibit NRDC-102, the official minutes of the December 7, 2017 meeting of the Board of the San Luis and Delta Mendota Water Authority, whose members include the CVP South of Delta contractors. The official minutes show that Jason Peltier reported that efforts to find a viable option for CVP involvement in the WaterFix have not been successful, and that the Director of the Department of Water Resources stated that a state-only, staged version of the WaterFix will be announced later this year. (p. 3-4.) NRDC-102 is directly relevant to the assertion that Alt 4A with full CVP participation continues to be the proposed project.

   NRDC also introduced on cross-examination exhibit NRDC-100, a contract with Hallmark Group, dated December 18, 2017, which states:

   Recent meetings with fish and wildlife agencies have triggered additional planning and permitting activities such as the development of a supplemental EIR/EIS. (p. 1.)

   This exhibit is directly relevant to the assertion that the fish and wildlife regulatory conditions for the WaterFix project have been determined.
Neither of these exhibits constitute cross-examination on the details of a staged implementation of the WaterFix, which are not determined at this point. They instead constitute cross-examination on whether Gwen Buchholz’ testimony that the initial operational scenario analyzed in the WaterFix Final EIR/EIS is the adopted project is misleading and inaccurate. NRDC simply exercised a party’s right to cross-examine opposing witnesses and impeach any witness.

4. Due Process Rights to Cross-Examination and Impeachment of Witnesses

All adjudicative proceedings before the SWRCB are governed by section 11513 of the Government Code. (Cal. Code Regs. tit 23 § 648, subd. (b).) Government Code section 11513, subdivision (b) provides in part:

Each party shall have these rights: […] to cross-examine opposing witnesses on any matter relevant to the issues even though that matter was not covered in the direct examination; to impeach any witness regardless of which party first called him or her to testify; and to rebut the evidence against him or her. (underlining added.)

These statutory and regulatory provisions implement basic due process protections required by Article I, § 7 of the California Constitution, and the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

The court in Manufactured Home Communities v. County of San Luis Obispo (2008) 167 Cal.App.4th 705 ruled:

The right to cross-examine applies in a wide variety of administrative proceedings. [citations omitted.] It is especially important where findings against a party are based on an adverse witness’s testimony. [citations omitted.] (Id at 711.)

As for what testimony requires cross-examination, Manufactured Home Communities, supra, states:

Where it makes a decision based on a party's testimony, the adversary is entitled to question his or her opponent. [citations omitted.] (Id at 712.)

Manufactured Home Communities, supra, also cites Fost v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 724, 733, 95 Cal.Rptr.2d 620. This decision explains that cross-examination is an absolute right:

Because it relates to the fundamental fairness of the proceedings, cross-examination is said to represent an “absolute right,” not merely a privilege (People v. Abner (1962) 209 Cal.App.2d 484, 489, 25 Cal.Rptr. 882; People v. Flores (1936) 15 Cal.App.2d 385, 401, 59 P.2d 517), and denial or undue restriction thereof may be reversible error. (People v. Redwine (1958) 166 Cal.App.2d 371, 333 P.2d 188.)

This is the view not just of California courts but of the highest court of our land, which has declared: “Cross-examination of a witness is a matter of right. [Citation.] Its permissible purposes, among others, are that facts may be brought out tending to discredit the witness by showing that his testimony in chief was untrue or biased. [Citations.] (Id at 626.)

The court continues to state that denial of the opportunity cross-examination results in prejudice and denial of a fair trial:

Prejudice ensues from a denial of the opportunity to place the witness in his proper setting and put the weight of his testimony and his credibility to a test, without which the jury cannot fairly appraise them. [Citations.] To say that prejudice can be established only by showing that the cross-examination, if pursued, would necessarily have brought out facts tending to discredit the testimony in chief, is to deny a substantial right and withdraw one of the safeguards essential to a fair trial. [Citations.]” (Alford v. United States (1931) 282 U.S. 687, 691-692, 51 S.Ct. 218, 75 L.Ed. 624; accord, Chambers v. Mississippi (1973) 410 U.S. 284, 295, 93 S.Ct. 1038, 35 L.Ed.2d 297; Smith v. Illinois (1968) 390 U.S. 129, 131, 88 S.Ct. 748, 19 L.Ed.2d 956; Douglas v. Alabama (1965) 380 U.S. 415, 419-420, 85 S.Ct. 1074, 13 L.Ed.2d 934.) In short, cross-examination is “an essential and fundamental requirement for the kind of fair trial which is this country’s constitutional goal.” (Pointer v. Texas (1965) 380 U.S. 400, 405, 85 S.Ct. 1065, 13 L.Ed.2d 923.) (Id at 626.)

In conclusion, to conform with the California and federal Constitutions, statute, and regulation, and to avoid prejudice in this proceeding, the Hearing Officers must not arbitrarily restrict cross-examination of DWR’s witnesses in this trial. Cross-examination on the assumptions of the WaterFix Final EIR/EIS, the Notice of Decision, and the CWF H3+ scenario must be allowed. To rule otherwise would fundamentally and irrevocably compromise any decision based on DWR’s witnesses’ testimony on the project.
