Dear Water Board members,

As board members, you serve the public as guardians of a public trust resource. Salmon, the 100+ species that depend on salmon and humans generations into the future are counting on you, your vision and values.

Humans must re-learn how to live in harmony with Mother Nature. I ask that you:

- consult Chief Caleen Sisk of the Winnemem Wintu Tribe to learn how their tribe is working to bring the Winter-Run Chinook Salmon back from the verge of extinction and what kind of water management is needed to make that possible. <http://www.run4salmon.org/>
- take to heart the hard lessons from the history of the Eel River, lessons of human greed and mismanagement that continue to this day. <https://m.facebook.com/A-Rivers-Last-Chance-1275665679172558/>

When you draw a line in the sand for limits to corporate demands, humans will adjust and learn how to do more with less.

I support staying true to your own 2010 flow criteria report that determined 60% unimpaired flow is the bottom line.

Sincerely,
Melanie Liu
