

What the hell are you people thinking , or what planet are you from! Who gives you the right to steal water from our water districts who have built and maintained our water storage dams for over 100 years. You should jerk your heads out of your butts and take a ride to Southern California so you can see the water run down the streets and gutters; keeping all their medians green and their cars bright and clean. Why not try to work on putting desalinization plants in to supply water to So Cal just like San Diego is doing? Then you would have all that extra water to feed the fish. You have got to find a better alternative than just stealing water and spending God knows how much money for a project that you do not even know will accomplish what you are telling us TAX PAYERS ! All this will do is increase the cost of all food products and electricity. We the people are not as stupid as you think we are and I know there are a lot of better ways to conserve and utilize what water we are able to collect. By the way, have you heard the State of California is BROKE and We The People are getting the hell TAXED out of us! Do your job , find a smarter solution just to prove to us that you, “The State Water Resources Board people”, have something useful between your ears.
